FOREWORD

In keeping with strong national trends toward strengthening the legislature as an organ of government, the 1967 Legislature enacted chapter 67-472, which established the Statutory Revision Department as a part of the Legislative Reference Bureau, subject to the supervision of the Legislative Council. Although the effect was to transfer the administration of the continuous revision program from the attorney general's office, where it had been long and well performed, there was no intent to alter the basic policy that guides the preparation of the Florida Statutes. That policy continues to be that of providing an authoritative, up-to-date publication of the general laws of the state at the lowest possible cost to the user.

The practicing bar has a natural and compelling interest in the publication of the Florida Statutes, and this interest should not be affected in any way by the transfer of the statutory revision function to the Legislative Council. The continuous revision program cannot be successfully administered without the active and continuing cooperation of the bar and its individual members. Comments and suggestions from members of the profession for improvements in the publication of the Statutes are indispensable.

Florida Legislative Council

Dedication

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Florida Legislative Council on November 10, 1967, this eleventh edition of the Florida Statutes is gratefully dedicated to The Honorable Charles Tom Henderson, former member of the House of Representatives and Assistant Attorney General of Florida, now retired. While serving as Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Henderson was also director of the Statutory Revision Department from January, 1949 until April, 1967, a period which included the real beginning of the continuous revision program in Florida and also the biennial publication of nine editions of the Florida Statutes. During this long period of exemplary service, Charles Tom Henderson rendered invaluable assistance, both personally and through the bill-drafting resources of his department, to legislators and members of the bench and bar.

PREFACE

THE CONTINUOUS REVISION PROGRAM

Florida is one of the few states conducting a continuous statutory revision program by publishing the whole body of the general law in force after each regular legislative session. The advantages are obvious: Such a program provides an up-to-date, authoritative statement of the general law for use by practitioners, judges, legislators and other interested persons. The following is an attempt to identify and explain some of the attributes and consequences of the Florida program that should be of interest to all who use the Statutes.

Biennial adoption of the Florida Statutes.—An important feature of Florida's continuous statutory revision program is the biennial adoption by the legislature of the last edition of the Florida Statutes, including general laws enacted by the preceding legislature, as amended by revisor's bills enacted during the current session. Section 11.2421 is the vehicle for such adoption, which has for a primary purpose to provide the legislature then meeting with an authoritative, official statement of the general law then in force upon which to base its deliberations.

Section 11.242(6) (d) requires that all laws "of a general and permanent nature" enacted during the preceding session be included in the biennial publication of the Florida Statutes published at the close of each regular session, but specifies that they shall be only prima facie evidence of the law in all courts of the state. This means that until these portions of the Florida Statutes are made official by the adoption bill enacted at the beginning of the following session, the respective pamphlet laws constitute the official evidence of the law embodied in them. City of Coral Gables v. Brasher, Fla. 1960, 120 So.2d 5.

The biennial adoption feature of Florida's continuous statutory revision program has an important by-product that should be mentioned. It cures any procedural—as opposed to substantive—defect in the initial passage of a particular act. Brewer v. Gray, Fla. 1956, 86 So.2d 799. As a result, general legislation remains susceptible to attack on such technical, procedural grounds only during the period between its original enactment and passage of the adoption bill at the beginning of the subsequent legislative session.

Implied repeals and amendments.—In the confusion that seems inevitably to attend legislative sessions, the legislature occasionally enacts two or more bills that relate to the same provision of the Florida Statutes. On such occasions, the revisors must find the legislative intent from the best evidence available. When the provisions of two amendatory acts are not mutually inconsistent, the language is meshed and full effect is given to both. When the provisions of two amendatory statutes are in irreconcilable conflict, the last enacted is published as the most recent expression of the sovereign will; however, a note is inserted calling attention to the conflict and setting forth the text of the act which was prior in enactment.

When the last enacted of two conflicting statutes purports to amend a section of the Florida Statutes which an earlier act had repealed, the course to be followed must depend on whether the substance of the amendatory act makes sense standing alone. If it does not, it is not published as a section in force, and an explanatory note is inserted; if the amendatory act does make sense standing alone, it is published as a new section in place of the repealed section, though with a new section number. On the other hand, if the last enacted of two conflicting acts repeals a section which an earlier act purported to amend, the section would simply be deleted.

It would be a most unusual occurrence if a statute "of a general and permanent nature" were inadvertently omitted from the Florida Statutes. In the rare event that this happened, the legal effect of the omitted statutes would probably not be affected during the period between the time of its enactment and the enactment of the adoption bill early in the following session, when the new portions of the Statutes are only prima facie evidence of the law, in any event. It would appear, however, that unless the omission were corrected by an appropriate revisor's bill at the beginning of the next session, the omitted act would stand repealed by the enactment of the adoption bill, pursuant to section 11.2422. National Bank of Jacksonville v. Williams, 1896, 38 Fla. 305, 20 So. 931.

ADDITIONAL FEATURES OF THE FLORIDA STATUTES

Arrangement of chapters and titles.—The object of any arrangement of statutes is to facilitate the finding of the law. There are two methods of arrangement in general use in the United States: The "logical," or "topical," grouping of related subjects, as used in many digests; and the "alphabetical" arrangement, as used by Corpus Juris and American Jurisprudence. Florida has followed the majority of states in adopting the former of these arrangements.

Numbering system.—The sections of the Florida Statutes are identified by the decimal numbering system. Having first been arranged by subject matter, the chapters of the Florida Statutes are each assigned a whole number which appears to the left of the decimal point in each number that identifies a section. The section within the chapter is then identified by the digits appearing to the right of the decimal point. Thus, section 16.01 would identify a section in chapter 16 of the Statutes.

The principal advantage of the decimal numbering system is its infinite flexibility. A new section can always be inserted between any two existing sections. For example, a new section to be inserted between sections 16.12 and 16.13 could be assigned any number between 16.121 and 16.129 without using more than three digits to the right of the decimal point. We have recently adopted the practice of using "5" as the last digit in such a situation—i.e., 16.125—so as to leave room for future expansion in both directions without the necessity of adding another digit. If need develops for a new chapter number where none is available, the need can be met by the addition of a capital letter. Thus, a new chapter between chapters 121 and 122 could be assigned number 121A.

As a corollary to this discussion of flexibility of the decimal numbering system, it should be emphasized that the number of a chapter or section has no significance other than to indicate order. In other words, a section that is identified by a number containing four digits to the right of the decimal point is of no less dignity or importance than a section having a number with only two or three digits to the right of the decimal point.

The hierarchical arrangement of textual subdivisions is indicated by different designations. Thus, chapters are indicated by whole numbers; sections, by numbers containing a decimal point; subsections, by whole arabic numbers enclosed by parentheses; paragraphs, by lower case letters enclosed by parentheses; and subparagraphs, by whole arabic numbers followed by a period. Subdivisions beyond the subparagraph are not ordinarily used.

Chapters 186, 229, 230, 348, 601, 608, 624, 625, 626, and 627 contain aberrational departures from the rule of decimal numbering. These aberrations will be eliminated as soon as this can be accomplished without causing undue confusion. Chapters 671 through 680 also depart from strict decimal numbering in that the sections of those chapters are keyed to the section numbers of the Uniform Commercial Code.

Finding the law.—There are two general methods for finding those sections of the Florida Statutes that deal with a particular subject matter. The choice of which to use on any particular occasion should be determined by the preference of the searcher and the degree of his familiarity with the Statutes and the indexing systems contained therein. One who has considerable familiarity with the body of law being searched may save some time by simply using the chapter index which appears at the front of each chapter. The proper chapter can usually be located by use of the alphabetical and numerical (also topical) indexes that are located at the front of Volumes 1 and 2. One who is less familiar with the subject matter or who is conducting a more wide-ranging search will probably prefer to use the general index which is located in Volume 3. Directions for the use of the general index are also to be found there.

History notes and cross references.—History notes have been carefully compiled, checked for accuracy with the original session laws, and brought completely up to date. During the period 1957-1965, an attempt was made to relate the history notes to the specific subsection or paragraph affected. This practice has now been abandoned as involving labor and susceptibility to error far out of proportion to the benefit attained. However, notes containing that detailed information will be left undisturbed until later changes require resetting of the type.

Where possible, related or qualifying sections are noted in the form of cross references immediately following the history notes.

Table of statutory changes by the 1967 Legislature.—A table of changes to sections of the Florida Statutes is located at the front of Volumes 1 and 2, printed on buff paper. This table shows: (1) The numbers of sections or subsections that have been changed in any way and (2) whether the change consisted of an amendment, a repeal, a transfer, or an addition. It is a convenient device for pinpointing changes to a given segment of the general law.

Tracing table.—A table tracing the classification of general laws into the Florida Statutes throughout the period 1919-1967 will be found in Volume 3. The word "omitted" shown in the place of a statute section number indicates that the act was local or special or a general act of local application. To find an omitted chapter, consult the appropriate volumes of the Session Laws.

Table of repealed and inactive sections.—Immediately preceding the General Index in Volume 3 is a table showing repealed and inactive sections. Whenever a section is repealed or transferred through revision to a new location in the Statutes, the former section number becomes inactive and will not be used again. Such numbers are then transferred to this table, along with the history notes that applied to the former section. The table is of primary utility to the researcher who is interested in the movement of the law as well as its current content.

Miscellaneous materials.—Section 11.242(5) authorizes the inclusion in the published edition of the Florida Statutes, in addition to the general laws as adopted and enacted, the Florida Constitution, and complete indexes, "such other matters, notes, data, and other material as may be deemed necessary or admissible by the Statutory Revision Department for reference, convenience or interpretation." The various items published under this authority are located in Volume 3 and identified in the table of contents at the front of each volume.

FORMER REVISIONS AND COMPILATION

The laws of general application of the territory of Florida and of the State of Florida have either been compiled unofficially or revised under authority of law and adopted as official statutes in the following publications: Duval's Compilation of Territorial Laws, 1840 (compilation); Thompson's Digest, 1847 (compilation); Bush's Digest, 1872 (compilation); McClellan's Digest, 1881 (compilation); Revised Statutes (R.S.) 1892 (revision enacted as a law); General Statutes (G.S.) 1906 (revision enacted as a law); Revised General Statutes (R.G.S.) 1920 (revision enacted as a law); Compiled General Laws (C.G.L.) 1927 (compilation unofficial); revision of 1940 and the beginning of the continuous revision system; adoption of the official 1940 revision in 1941 (F.S. 1941); the Florida Statutes of 1949 (F.S. 1949) (consolidation of 1941 statutes and supplements printed during the war years in 1943, 1945, 1947); and Florida Statutes of 1951, 1953, 1955, 1957, 1959, 1961, 1963, 1965, and 1967.

THE STATUTORY REVISION DEPARTMENT

By chapter 22012, Laws of Florida, 1943, the legislature created a permanent statutory revision and legislative drafting and reference department under the supervision and control of the attorney general. The principal functions of this department were to publish the general laws of the state and to maintain a bill drafting department and legislative reference library. In 1949 the legislature established the Legislative Council and Legislative Reference Bureau as an arm of the legislature and completely separate from the attorney general. Finally, by chapter 67-472, the current legislature removed the Statutory Revision Department from the office of the attorney general and established it as a part of the Legislative Reference Bureau under the supervision of the Legislative Council.

The powers, duties, and functions of the Statutory Revision Department are set out in section 11.242. In general, they remain as before: (1) To conduct a systematic and continuing study of the statutes and laws of the state for the purpose of reducing their number and bulk, removing inconsistencies, redundancies and unnecessary repetitions and otherwise improve their clarity and facilitate their correct and proper interpretation; (2) to publish the Florida Statutes; and (3) to maintain a bill drafting department for the benefit of the members of the legislature.

Section 11.242(6) defines the limits of the editorial license that is available to the Statutory Revision Department in producing the Florida Statutes. Pursuant to this section, the department has broad authority over the arrangement and grammatical structure of the Statutes. Although the statutes provide that the product of the department's work shall constitute only prima facie evidence of the law until it has been formally adopted at the beginning of the following session, the Statutory Revision Department nonetheless traditionally exercises its editorial prerogatives with as much self-restraint as possible. It believes its mandate to be to produce the Statutes in usable and literate form, but strictly within the framework of the legislative intent.

The revisor's office is a clearinghouse where lawyers, judges, legislators, and administrators may help to improve the statutory law of the state. Persons calling attention to errors, omissions, conflicts and other defects in the law can be a material help in administering Florida's continuous revision program.

|--|--|

6.01 Assent to terms of admission into the union.—The State of Florida assents as by the statute approved July 25, 1845, to the terms of admission of this state into the confederacy and union of the United States, and to the provisions of the acts of congress respecting the public lands of the United States in this state.

History.—Ch. 14, 1845; RS 6; GS 4; RGS 4; CGL 4.

6.02 United States authorized to acquire lands for certain purposes.—The United States may purchase, acquire, hold, own, occupy and possess such lands within the limits of this state as they shall seek to occupy and hold as sites on which to erect and maintain forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings, or any of them, as contemplated and provided in the constitution of the United States; such land to be acquired either by contract with owners, or in the manner hereinafter provided.

History.—§1, ch. 25, 1845; RS 7; GS 5; RGS 5; CGL 5.
cf.—§§6.06, 253.21, Swamp and forest lands.

6.03 Condemnation of land when price not agreed upon.—If the officer or other agent employed by the United States to make such purchase and the owner of the land contemplated to be purchased, as aforesaid, cannot agree for the sale and purchase thereof, the same may be acquired by the United States by condemnation in the same manner as is hereinafter provided for condemnation of lands for other public purposes, and any officer or agent authorized by the United States may institute and conduct such proceedings in their behalf.

History.—§2, ch. 25, 1845; RS 8; GS 6; RGS 6; CGL 6.

The said lands shall hereafter remain the property of the United States and be exempt from taxation as long as they shall be needed for said purposes.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 630, 1855; RS 10; GS 8; RGS 3; CGL 8.

History.—§1, ch. 8564, 1921; CGL 9.
cf.—Ch. 17938, Acts 1937, for conveyance of land in Putnam County to United States.

6.07 Power conferred on congress to legislate with respect to state lands acquired for national forests.—Congress may pass such laws and make or provide for the making of such rules and regulations, of both a civil and criminal nature, and provide punishment therefor, as in its judgment may be necessary for the administration, control, and protection of such lands as may be from time to time acquired by the United States under the provisions of §6.06.

History.—§2, ch. 8564, 1921; CGL 10.

13.20 Florida commission on constitutional government; legislative declaration.—It is declared:

(1) The most nearly perfect system of government for free men ever devised by human ingenuity is that embodied in the constitution of the United States, under which a central authority exercises those powers of government, but only those powers of government, necessarily administered on a nation-wide basis, and the several states, responsive to the needs and desires of their people, exercise all of the other powers of sovereignty.

(2) For the protection of the liberties of the people and the orderly administration of public affairs it is necessary that the proper fields of authority exercised by the national government and those of the states be thoroughly understood by the people and clearly stated in national and state constitutions.

This was done at the foundation of the nation.

(3) Many persons have adopted and are active in propagating philosophies of government destructive of this principle.

(4) In recent years the growing complexities of the social order has indicated the wisdom of some expansion in the powers of the central government beyond those exercised, or properly permissible, under the constitution of the United States as originally conceived and written. Instead of awaiting the amendment of the constitution by the method therein provided, many of these powers have been exercised through the expedient of placing a warped and unjustified construction upon the federal constitution.

(5) Too often those actively opposing unjustified expansion of the powers of the federal government have been aroused by personal interest and for this reason their motives have been questioned and their effectiveness impaired.

(6) The tremendous expenditure of money by the national government begun for the purpose of relieving the emergency of a great depression started a trend by promoting a tendency of the people to look to that government for relief of all economic problems without a proper realization of the fact that the inevitable result of this practice is to increase the burden of taxation and enlarge the powers of the central government over the lives and destinies of the people.

(7) It is a duty of the state to its people to preserve, for the benefit of its citizens, the powers of the state; to protect its inhabitants from unjustified assumption of authority over them by any government, even that of the United States. To this end it is the duty of the state to keep the people informed of the activities of the state and national government to the extent necessary that they may wisely exercise their responsibilities as free men and women in a democratic community.

History.—§1, ch. 57-797.

13.21 Same; creation.—There is hereby created a commission of seven persons to be known as the "Florida commission on constitutional government." One member shall be a member of the state senate appointed by the president of the senate, one member shall be a member of the state house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives. The other members shall be appointed by the governor. The members shall be appointed for a term of four years. A vacancy in the membership of the commission shall be filled by appointment for the unexpired term in the same manner as the original appointment. The members of the commission shall elect from their number a chairman and secretary.

History.—§2, ch. 57-797.

13.22 Same; duties.—It shall be the duty of the commission to:

(1) Encourage an appreciation of the necessity of maintaining the proper scope of the respective powers of the government of the United States and of the several states.

(2) Call the attention of the people to all acts of the government of the United States and each of its departments which invade the proper fields of state sovereignty.

(3) Support the demand that all necessary expansion of the powers of the federal government not clearly within those granted to it by the constitution of the United States be provided for by amendment to that constitution adopted in the manner provided in that document.

(4) Assist in the preparation and submission to the congress of the United States of a proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States clarifying the rights of the states and the limitations upon the powers of the United States, and providing appropriate safeguards to the people from unwarranted assumption of authority by any department of the federal government.

(5) To cooperate with officers and citizens of other states in bringing about a better understanding of the dangers which threaten the system of government under which the people of the United States have enjoyed the greatest measure of freedom, of security, of progress in every field, that the world has ever witnessed.

History.—§3, ch. 57-797.

13.23 Same; powers.—In order to carry out these duties the commission shall have the power to:

(1) Utilize such means, without limitation, as it shall deem most expedient to acquire and disseminate detailed information designed to accomplish the end for which it was created.

(2) Organize, or cause to be organized, an agency of interstate or nation-wide character committed to the principles of:

(a) A strong central government endowed with all powers which are clearly and specifically granted by the constitution of the United States.

(b) The full protection of the rights of the sovereign states by amendment to the constitution rather than by judicial decree.

(c) Strong and truly sovereign states endowed with the inherent power to exercise state functions without federal interference.

History.—§4, ch. 57-797.

13.24 Same; compensation and traveling expenses of members.—Membership on the commission shall not constitute a state office, but a designation of a distinguished citizen of the state to render a public service under authority of this law. Members of the commission shall not be paid any compensation but shall be reimbursed for their traveling expenses as provided in §112.061, upon requisitions to be approved by the governor. All expenses of the commission shall be paid from appropriations to be made by the legislature for that purpose.

History.—§5, ch. 57-797; §1, ch. 61-24; §4, ch. 63-400.

(a) That the state was discovered by Juan Ponce de Leon in 1513 and thereafter in 1521 he, as captain general and governor of "the island of Florida," financed and attempted to make a settlement on the west coast of the state, but upon landing, de Leon having been mortally wounded, a colony was not established and the project was abandoned; and

(b) That Lucas Vasquez Ayllon in 1524 sought to colonize an area on the Atlantic seaboard, called Chicora, and the settlers had scarcely landed when they were killed by hostile Indians, terminating this expedition; and

(d) Thereafter Hernando de Soto, as captain general and governor of "La Florida," commanded and financed an exploratory expedition in 1539; the governor died on the banks of the Mississippi river, and his followers abandoned further exploration and moved forward to New Spain; and

(e) Thereafter in 1549 Father Cancer de Barbastro, a Dominican priest, sought with several other priests to enter La Florida and pacify the Indians by preaching the gospel, but he also lost his life at the time of landing and the project was abandoned; and

(j) That in 1562 Ribault landed in a vessel at a point near Jacksonville, and claimed the territory for the king of France; and educational, recreational, historical and economic welfare of the people of this state and the several counties and cities thereof; and

(o) That the city and county celebrations can be accomplished in a satisfactory manner only by the creation of a governmental agency to take charge of, manage and conduct these celebrations so that they may be maintained upon a high plane and with uniform standards throughout the state, so as to reflect credit upon each community and the state; and

(p) That such public bodies should exercise public and essential governmental functions in carrying out and effectuating the purpose and provisions of this law.

(a) In each municipality there is hereby created a public body corporate and politic to be known as "quadricentennial commission of the city of _____," provided, however, that such commission shall not transact any business nor exercise any powers hereunder until or unless the governing body of the city by proper resolution shall declare that there is need for a commission to function in such municipality. The determination as to whether there is such a need for such commission to function may be made by the governing body on its own motion; or shall be made by the governing body upon the filing of a petition signed by fifty residents of such municipality asserting that there is a need for a commission to function in such municipality and requesting that the governing body so declare; and

(b) In each county there is hereby created a public body corporate and politic to be known as "quadricentennial commission of _____ county"; provided, however, that such commission shall not transact any business or exercise its powers hereunder until or unless the governing body of the county by proper resolution shall declare there is need for a commission to function in such county. The determination as to whether there is such need for a commission to function may be made by the governing body on its own motion, or shall be made by the governing body upon the filing of a petition signed by fifty residents of the county asserting that there is need for a commission to function in such county and requesting the governing body to so declare.

(c) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, if a county quadricentennial commission is authorized to function prior to the authority being granted to any commission by a municipality located therein, then such county quadricentennial commission shall function throughout the entire county both within and without the corporate limits of the municipality therein and no quadricentennial commission of any municipality shall transact any business or exercise its powers so long as said county quadricentennial commission is functioning pursuant to resolution of the county, but if any municipality has adopted the required resolution to authorize a quadricentennial commission to transact business and exercise its powers within a municipality located in said county, prior to the adoption of a resolution by the governing body of the county, then in such event, the city quadricentennial commission may function throughout the county in which it is located and if both a city and county commission are authorized to function in any county, both commissions shall be authorized to transact business, and exercise their individual powers, but the activities of the commission authorized by the county to transact business, shall confine its activities to those parts of the county that are located without the corporate limits of any such municipality which has authorized the transaction of business by a city quadricentennial commission and such city quadricentennial commission shall exercise its activities to those within the corporate limits of the municipality for which it was created.

(d) The governing body, of either a municipality or county, may adopt a resolution declaring that there is need for a quadricentennial commission if it shall find that significant events during the history of the state occurred at any time within the borders and boundaries of the municipality or county; that the celebrating or emphasizing of such events will be of benefit to citizens of the community from a historical, recreational, educational, cultural and economic standpoint; and that the citizens of the city or county, as the case may be, will receive benefits by the holding of such a celebration and exhibition including the attraction of visitors and tourists and the settlement of persons within the municipal or county boundaries.

(e) In any suit, action or proceeding involving the validity or enforcement of or relating to any contract of the commission, the commission shall be conclusively deemed to have become established and authorized to transact business and exercise its powers hereunder upon proof of the adoption of a resolution by the appropriate governing body declaring the need for the commission. Such resolution or resolutions shall be sufficient if it declares that there is such a need for a commission and finds substantially the foregoing terms (no further detail being necessary), that any or all of the above enumerated conditions existed in the county or city. A copy of such resolution duly certified by the clerk of the circuit court or city clerk or officer occupying a similar position, shall be admissible in evidence in any suit, action or proceeding.

(2) Any quadricentennial commission duly authorized by resolution to transact business and exercise its power in the manner hereto-

17.041 County and district accounts and claims.—

(1) It shall be the duty of the comptroller of this state to adjust and settle, or cause to be adjusted and settled, all accounts and claims heretofore or hereafter certified to him by the state auditor, against all county and district officers and employees, and other persons, firms and corporations, entrusted with, or who may have received any property, funds or moneys of a county or district, or may be in any wise indebted to or accountable to a county or district for any property, funds, moneys or other thing of value, and to require such officer, employee, person, firm or corporation to render full accounts thereof, and to yield up such property, funds, moneys or other thing of value according to law to the officer or authority entitled by law to receive the same.

(2) On the failure of such officer, employee, person, firm or corporation to adjust and settle such account, or to yield up such property, funds, moneys or other thing of value, the comptroller shall direct the attorney for the board of county commissioners, the county board of public instruction, or the district, as the case may be, entitled to such account, property, funds, moneys or other thing of value, to represent such county or district in enforcing settlement, payment or delivery of such account, property, funds, moneys or other thing of value.

(3) Should the attorney for the county or district aforesaid be disqualified or unable to act, and no other attorney be furnished by the county or district, or should the comptroller otherwise deem it advisable, such account or claim may be certified to the attorney general, by the comptroller, to be prosecuted by him at county or district expense, as the case may be, including necessary per diem and travel expense in accordance with §112.061, as now or hereafter amended. Such expenses, when approved by the comptroller, shall be paid forthwith by such county or district.

(4) Should it appear to the comptroller that any criminal statute of this state has or may have been violated by such defaulting officer, employee, person, firm or corporation, such information, evidence, documents, and other things tending to show such a violation, whether in the hands of the comptroller, state auditor, county or district, shall be forthwith turned over to the proper state attorney or county solicitor for his inspection, study and such action as he may deem proper, or the same may be brought to the attention of the proper grand jury.

(5) No such account or claim, after it has been certified to the comptroller, may be settled for less than the amount due according to law without the written consent of the comptroller, and any attempt to make settlement in violation of this subsection shall be deemed null and void. A county or district board desiring to make such a settlement shall incorporate the proposed settlement into a resolution, stating that the proposed settlement is contingent upon the comptroller's approval, and shall submit two copies of the resolution to the comptroller. The comptroller shall return one copy with his action endorsed thereon.

(6) No settlement of account of any such officer, employee, person, firm or corporation, with the county or district, or any of their officers or agents, made in an amount or manner other than as authorized by law or for other than a lawful county or district purpose, shall be binding upon such county or district unless and until approved by the comptroller, or unless more than four years shall have elapsed from the date of such settlement.

(7) Nothing in this section shall supersede the continuing duty of the proper county and district officers to require any officer, employee, person, firm or corporation to render full accounts of and to yield up according to law to the officer or authority entitled by law to receive the same, any property, funds, moneys or other thing of value as to which such officer, employee, person, firm or corporation is in any wise indebted to or accountable to such county or district. (4) The fact that a municipal officer or a state officer, including an officer of any municipal or state agency, board, bureau, commission, institution and department, is a stockholder or an officer or director of a bank will not bar such bank from being a depository of funds

History.—§1, ch. 59-447.

22.02 Declaration of policy.—Because of the existing possibility of attack upon the United States of unprecedented size and destructiveness, and in order, in the event of such an attack, to assure continuity of government through legally constituted leadership, authority and responsibility in offices of the government of the state and its political subdivisions; to provide for the effective operation of governments during an emergency; and to facilitate the early resumption of functions temporarily suspended, it is found and declared to be necessary to provide for additional officers who can exercise the powers and discharge the duties of governor; to provide for emergency interim succession to governmental offices of its political subdivisions, in the event the incumbents thereof are unavailable to perform the duties and functions of such offices.

(2) Such guards shall be regular or special deputy sheriffs, residents of the state, citizens of the United States, and bonded, with no prior criminal record, and shall be always under the control of the respective sheriffs who employ said guards. All orders to said guards shall emanate from the respective sheriffs; provided, however, that industry shall have the right to supervise said guards and make recommendations in connection with the guarding of its property to said sheriffs.

(3) The term "industry," as used in this section, shall be construed to include any person, firm or corporation engaged, directly or indirectly, in the manufacture or furnishing of any materials, equipment, commodities or services which contribute to the prosecution of the war effort.

(4) The said guards employed by the various sheriffs hereunder shall be acceptable to the particular industry involved at all times and shall receive such pay as is agreeable to the

(2) No sheriff shall be liable in damages to anyone whomsoever for making a wrongful levy whenever the same has been made as required under subsection (1).

(3) If the sheriff, in attempting to execute any writ describing specific property, shall find it in the possession of anyone, other than the defendant, who is claiming the ownership or the right to the possession thereof, the sheriff, in his discretion, may require the plaintiff suing out the writ to furnish a bond, payable to such sheriff, in a sum not exceeding the reasonable value of the described property, as fixed by such sheriff, with sureties satisfactory to him conditioned to hold him harmless against liability for any loss or damage that might be sustained by anyone whomsoever by reason of his levying upon such described property, and in-

The fiscal year of the sheriff shall henceforth commence on October 1 and end on September 30 of each year.

(2) The sheriff shall submit with the proposed budget his sworn certificate, stating that the proposed expenditures are reasonable and necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the office for the ensuing year. Each proposed budget shall show the estimated amounts of all proposed expenditures for operating and equipping the sheriffs office and jail other than construction, repair, or capital improvement of county buildings during the said fiscal year. The expenditures shall be itemized as follows:

No later than August 1 of each year, the said board or commission, as the case may be, may amend, modify, increase or reduce any or all items of expenditure in the proposed budget and, as amended, modified, increased, or reduced, shall approve said budget, giving written notice of their action to the sheriff specifying in such notice the specific items so amended, modified, increased or reduced; the budget shall include the salaries and expenses of the sheriff's office, cost of operation of the county jail, purchase, maintenance and operation of equipment, including patrol cars, radio systems, transporting prisoners, court duties, and all other salaries, expenses, equipment and investi-

The sheriff, within ten days after receiving written notice of such action by the board or commission (either in person or in his office) may file an appeal to the board of appeals of county officers' budgets, which board is hereby created and which shall be composed of the governor, the state comptroller and the attorney general. Such appeal shall be by petition to such board of appeals, which petition shall set forth the budget proposed by the sheriff and the budget as approved by the board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be, and shall contain the reasons or grounds for the appeal. Such petition shall be filed with the state comptroller and a copy of said petition shall be served upon the board or commission from whose decision appeal is taken by delivering the same to the chairman or president thereof, or to the clerk of the circuit court. The board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be, shall have five days from delivery of a copy of any such petition, as above, to file with the board of appeals a reply thereto and shall deliver a copy of such reply to the sheriff.

(5) The board of appeals, within thirty days of the filing of the petition, shall consider the petition and may require a hearing thereon. The board of appeals shall by majority vote, within said thirty days, either: approve the action of the board or commission as to each separate item; or approve the budget as proposed by the sheriff as to each separate item; or amend or modify said budget as to each separate item within the limits of the proposed expenditures and the expenditures as approved by the board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be. The budget, as approved, amended, or modified by the board of appeals of county officers' budgets, shall be final. The repeal of §§30.47 and 30.54 and amendments to §§30.48(2) and 30.49(3) by chapter 59-216 shall take effect October 1, 1959, provided that budgeting procedures shall be instituted in accordance with existing law.

(6) The board of county commissioners and the budget commission, if there is a budget commission within the county, shall include in the county budget the items of proposed expenditures as set forth in the budget required by this section to be submitted, after the said budget has been reviewed and approved as provided herein; and the said board or commission, as the case may be, shall include the reserve for contingencies provided herein for each budget of the sheriff in the reserve for contingencies in the budget of the appropriate county fund.

(7) The reserve for contingencies in the budget of a sheriff shall be governed by the same provisions governing the amount and use of the reserve for contingencies appropriated in the county budget, except that the reserve for contingency in the budget of the sheriff shall be appropriated upon written request of the sheriff.

(8) The items placed in the budget of the board of county commissioners pursuant to this law shall be subject to the same provisions of law as the county annual budget; provided, that no amendments may be made to the appropriations for the sheriff's office except as requested by the sheriff.

(10) If in the judgment of the sheriff an emergency should arise by reason of which the sheriff would be unable to perform his duties without the expenditure of larger amounts than those provided in the budget, he may apply to the board of county officers' budget appeals for the appropriation of additional amounts. The sheriff shall at the same time deliver a copy of his application to the board of county commissioners, and to the budget commission if there is a budget commission within the county. The board of county officers' budget appeals shall hold a hearing on the application, after due notice to the sheriff and to the boards, and may grant or deny an increase or increases in the appropriations for the sheriff's offices. If any increase is granted, the board of county commissioners, and the budget commission, if there is a budget commission in the county, shall amend accordingly the budget of the appropriate county fund or funds. Such budget shall be brought into balance, if possible, by application of excess receipts in the said county fund or funds. If such excess receipts are not available in sufficient amount, the county fund budget or budgets shall be brought into balance by adding an item of "Vouchers unpaid" in the appropriate amount to the receipts side of the budget, and provision for paying such vouchers shall be made in the budget of the county fund for the next fiscal year.

The reserve for contingencies, or any part thereof, may be transferred to any of the budget appropriations, in the discretion of the sheriff. With the approval of the board of county commissioners, or of the budget commission if there is a budget commission in the county, the budget may be amended as provided for county budgets in §129.06(2).

(5) All expenses incurred in the fiscal year for which the budget is made shall be vouchered and charged to the budget for that year, and to carry out this purpose the books may be held open for thirty days after the end of the year.

(3) Deposits for fees shall be placed in a depository trust account. The officer who receives the deposit shall keep an account with the depositor, and shall withdraw monthly from the deposits the fees earned and shall remit them to the county fund or funds as provided by this section.

(4) Fees or commissions commingled when received with other official collections may be deposited with such other collections in the trust account or accounts and distributed to the county fund or funds at the time that the other collections, with which they were received, are distributed.

Any and all attempted judicial acts by any judge so disqualified in a cause, whether done inadvertently or otherwise, shall be utterly null and void and of no effect. Such suggestions shall be filed in the cause within thirty days after the party filing the suggestion, or his attorney, or attorneys, of record, or either of them, learned of such disqualification, otherwise the ground, or grounds, of disqualification shall be taken and considered as waived. If the truth of any suggestion appear from the record in said cause, the said judge shall forthwith enter an order reciting the filing of the suggestion,

Any such order declaring a judge to be disqualified shall not be subject to collateral attack nor shall it be subject to review. Any such order declaring a judge qualified shall not be subject to collateral attack but shall be subject to review by the court having appellate jurisdiction of the cause in connection with which the order was entered.

History.—§5, ch. 16053, 1933; CGL 1936 Supp. 4155(4).

38.05 Disqualification of judge on own motion.—Any judge may of his own motion disqualify himself where, to his own knowledge, any of the grounds for a suggestion of disqualification, as named in §38.02, exist. 38.07 Effect of orders, etc., entered prior to disqualification; petition for reconsideration.—Where orders have been entered in any cause by a judge prior to the entry of any order of disqualification under §38.02 or §38.05, any party to the cause may, within thirty days after the filing in the cause of the order of the chief justice of the supreme court, as provided for in §38.09, petition the judge so designated by said chief justice for a reconsideration of the orders entered by the disqualified judge prior to the date of the entry of the order of disqualification. Such a petition shall set forth with particularity the matters of law or fact to be relied upon as grounds for the modification or vacation of the said orders. Such a petition shall be granted as a matter of right. Upon the granting of the petition, notice of the time and place of the hearing thereon, together with a copy of the petition, shall be mailed by the attorney, or attorneys, of record for the petitioners to the other attorney, or attorneys of record, or to the party or parties if they have no attorneys of record. This notice shall be mailed at least eight days prior to the date fixed by the judge for the said hearing. The fact that an order was entered by a judge who is subsequently disqualified under §§38.02 or 38.05, shall not be assignable as error or subject to review by the appropriate appellate court unless a petition for reconsideration as provided for in §38.07, was filed by the party urging the matter as error, and the judge before whom the cause was then pending refused to vacate or modify said order.

History.—§9, ch. 16053, 1933; CGL 1936 Supp. 4155(8); §6, ch. 63-559.

History.—§10, ch. 16053, 1933; CGL 1936 Supp. 4155(9); §11, ch. 63-572.

38.10 Disqualification of judge for prejudice; application; affidavits; etc.—Whenever a party to any action or proceeding, shall make and file an affidavit that he fears that he will not receive a fair trial in the court where the suit is pending on account of the prejudice of the judge of said court against the applicant, or in favor of the adverse party, such judge shall proceed no further therein, but another judge shall be designated in the manner prescribed by the laws of this state for the substitution of judges for the trial of causes where the presiding judge is disqualified. Every such affidavit shall state the facts and the reasons for the belief that any such bias or prejudice exists, and such affidavit shall be filed not less than ten days before the beginning of the term of court, or good cause shown for the failure to so file same within such time. Any such affidavit so filed shall be accompanied by a certificate of counsel of record that such affidavit and application are made in good faith, and the facts stated as a basis for making the said affidavit shall be supported in substance by affidavit of at least two reputable citizens of the county not of kin to defendant or counsel for the defendant; provided, however, that when any party to any action shall have suggested the disqualification of a trial judge and an order shall have been made admitting the disqualification of such judge and another judge shall have been assigned and transferred to act in lieu of the judge so held to be disqualified the judge so assigned and transferred shall not be disqualified on account of alleged prejudice against the party making the suggestion in the first instance, or in favor of the adverse party, unless such judge shall admit and hold that it is then a fact that he, the said judge, does not stand fair and impartial between the parties, and if such judge shall hold, rule and adjudge that he does stand fair and impartial as between the parties and their respective interests he shall cause such ruling to be entered on the minutes of the court and shall proceed to preside as judge in the pending cause. in loco parentis to and has the custody of a child.

(10) "Dependent child" means a child who, for any reason, is destitute, homeless, dependent upon the public for support, or has not proper parental support, maintenance, care, or guardianship; or who is neglected as to proper or necessary support or education as required by law, or as to medical, psychiatric, psychological or other care necessary for the well-being of the child; or who is abandoned by the child's parent or other custodian; or whose condition or environment are such as to injure or endanger the welfare of the child or the welfare of others; or whose home, by reason of neglect, cruelty or depravity, or other adverse condition, on the part of the parents, legal custodians, guardian or other person in whose care the child may be, is an unfit place for the child.

(11) "Delinquent child" means a child who commits a violation of law, regardless of where the violation occurred.

(12)(a) "Child in need of supervision" means a child who is incorrigible; or is a persistent truant from school; or who is beyond the control of the child's parent or other legal custodian; or who associates with criminals, reputed criminals, or vicious or immoral persons; or is growing up in idleness or crime; or whose occupation, behavior or associations are such as to injure or endanger the welfare of the child or welfare of others; or who is found in a place predominantly used for selling intoxicating drinks for consumption on the premises.

(17) "Florida Bar" means the Florida Bar referred to in the opinion of the supreme court integrating the Florida Bar, filed June 7, 1949, in re Petition of Florida State Bar Ass'n. et al., 40 So. (2d) 902, and in the rules of that court relating thereto approved and adopted on February 27, 1950, and March 4, 1950.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951; §§1, 2, ch. 67-585.

39.02 Jurisdiction.—

(1)(a) The juvenile court shall have exclusive original jurisdiction of dependent and delinquent children domiciled, living or found within the county or district in which the court is established. The juvenile court of the county or district in which the child is found shall assume jurisdiction of the child, which jurisdiction shall be exclusive unless the judge thereof, upon approval of the judge of the juvenile court of the county or district in which is located the domicile or usual residence of the child, shall transfer the case and child to the latter court, before or after hearing, in which event the latter court shall thereafter exercise exclusive jurisdiction; provided, however, if the judge shall find that any child brought into juvenile court who, if an adult, would be charged with violating a federal law, state law or city ordinance relating to the operation or use of a motor vehicle, the judge may enter an order waiving jurisdiction and certifying the case to the court which would have jurisdiction of the child if the child were an adult, and thereafter the child shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the other court as if the child were an adult.

(b) The judge of any juvenile court, after filing of a petition and holding a hearing as hereafter provided, may revoke or suspend the driver's license of a child upon such judge finding that the child has violated a federal law, state law, or city ordinance relating to the operation of a motor vehicle; provided, the judge may in his discretion, after such finding, revoke or suspend the driver's license of such child without adjudicating the child to be a delinquent child.

(2) All proceedings against a child for alleged violation of law must be brought in the juvenile court, except as provided in subsection (6) of this section.

(3) If during the pendency of any criminal charge in any other court of the state of Florida or of any city or town therein, against any person presumed to be an adult, it shall be ascertained that the person is a child, or was a child at the time the offense was committed, that court shall forthwith transfer the case, together with the physical custody of the child and all physical evidence, papers, documents, and testimony, original and duplicate, connected therewith, to the appropriate juvenile court; provided, that this shall not apply to any case certified to that court by the juvenile court judge as provided in subsection (6) of this section. The juvenile court is exclusively authorized to assume jurisdiction over any delinquent child arrested and charged with violating a federal law or a law of the District of Columbia, who is found or living or domiciled in the county or district in which the juvenile court is established, when the child is surrendered to the juvenile court as provided in Title 18, U.S.C., section 5001.

(4) The judge of the juvenile court shall have the jurisdiction of a committing magistrate.

(5) When jurisdiction of any child shall have been obtained, the court shall retain jurisdiction, unless relinquished by order, until the child reaches twenty-one years of age; provided, that this shall not prevent the exercise of jurisdiction of any other court having jurisdiction in case the child, after becoming an adult, commits a violation of law.

(6) (a) If the judge deems that any child brought into juvenile court as a delinquent child, who is fourteen years of age or older, and who, if an adult, would be charged with a violation of Florida law constituting a felony, should be transferred to the court which would have jurisdiction of the child if the child were an adult, the judge may, after hearing, enter an order waiving jurisdiction and certifying the case to the court which would have jurisdiction of the child if the child were an adult, and thereafter the child shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the other court as if the child were an adult. Jurisdiction shall not be waived until a hearing is held in the juvenile court pertaining to waiver of jurisdiction and the judge shall, by written order, determine that it is in the best interest of the public that jurisdiction be waived. When this finding is based upon social histories, or psychological or psychiatric reports, the child, his parents, guardian or counsel shall have the right to examine these reports and to question the parties responsible for them at a hearing in the juvenile court.

(b) The judge shall waive jurisdiction and certify the case to the court which would have jurisdiction if the child were an adult, if the child, who is brought into court as a delinquent child and who, if an adult, would be charged with a violation of Florida law, joined by his parents, or one of them, his guardian, or his counsel so demands prior to or at the commencement of a hearing in the juvenile court. A written order shall be entered by the court setting forth said demand.

(c) When an indictment is returned by the grand jury charging a child of any age with a violation of Florida law punishable by death, the juvenile court shall be without jurisdiction, and the charge shall be made, and the child shall be handled, in every respect as if he were an adult.

(7) Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to take away from the juvenile court any jurisdiction or duties conferred upon it by §§232.19, 391.07, 409.03, 416.03, 416.06-416.08, and 417.03.

(8) Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to take away from the separate juvenile courts heretofore established in the counties of Broward, Dade, Pinellas and Polk any additional juvenile court or domestic relations jurisdiction which may be conferred upon them by chapter 22709, acts of 1945, laws of Florida, as amended (as to Broward); chapter 19597, acts of 1939, laws of Florida, as amended (as to Dade); chapter 11972, acts of 1927, laws of Florida (as to Pinellas); and house bill No. 1234 passed by the legislature at the 1951 session (as to Polk).

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951; §1, ch. 28172, 1953; §§1, 2, ch. 29900, 1955; §1, ch. 63-12; §1, ch. 65219; §1, ch. 67-71.

39.03 Taking a child into custody; detention.—

(1) No child shall be taken into custody without an order of the judge of the juvenile court of the county or district wherein the child is found, living, or domiciled, unless:

(a) The child is in such condition or surroundings that the welfare of the child requires that the child be immediately taken into custody; or

(b) The child shall be alleged to have committed a violation of law.

In case either of those special circumstances shall exist, any law enforcement officer whose duty it would be to do so if the child were an adult, and any counselor or assistant counselor, may take the child into custody without order of the judge.

(2) Unless otherwise ordered by the judge, the person taking the child into custody shall, whenever practicable, release the child to a parent or legal custodian of the child upon agreement of the parent or legal custodian to produce the child in juvenile court at such time as the court may direct, and shall forthwith make a full written report to the court, stating the facts by reason of which the child was taken into custody.

(3) The person taking and retaining a child in custody shall notify the parents or legal custodians of the child and the principal of the school in which said child is enrolled at the earliest practicable time, and shall, without delay for the purpose of investigation or any other purpose, deliver the child, by the most direct practicable route, to the court of the county or district where the child is taken into custody, or, if the judge has so ordered, to a detention home or licensed child caring institution or county or city jail, within the county or district, designated by the judge, and shall at the earliest practicable time report in writing to the court the facts by reason of which the child was taken into custody. The child shall not under any circumstances be placed in any police or other vehicle which at the same time contains an adult under arrest, nor in a jail, police station, or other place of detention, except on general or special order of the judge; providing, however, where the child is involved in the same offense or transaction with adults, then such child may be transported in the same vehicle with the adults so involved.

(4) The judge shall not make any order directing the delivery of a child to a jail unless neither a detention home nor a licensed child caring institution exists within the county or district, or neither is able to receive the child, or neither is a proper place therefor in the opinion of the judge; and the judge shall, at monthly intervals, inform the board of county commissioners and the county children's committee, in writing, of the number of and reasons for deliveries of children to jail, identifying children by initials and juvenile court case numbers but not by names.

(5) Whenever a child shall, pursuant to order of the judge, be delivered over to any jail, the child shall, in every case without exception, be placed and kept in a part of the jail entirely separate and apart from adult inmates.

(6) (a) No child taken into custody shall be fingerprinted or photographed except by special order of the juvenile court judge, and no original nor any copy of any fingerprint or photograph so taken shall be filed or recorded in any place other than the juvenile court, except as provided in paragraph (b) but all originals and copies thereof shall be delivered over to the juvenile court at the time directed in the order and promptly destroyed; provided that this shall not apply to the photographing of children at an industrial school or as provided in paragraph (b). Any record of the child made by any law enforcement officer or other person except the officers and employees of the juvenile court shall be made in a separate record kept for that purpose only. Such record shall not be a public record and shall not be open to inspection by anyone other than the officers and employees of the juvenile court, by the child, the parents or legal custodians of the child or their attorneys; provided, however, that the records of any child over the age of fourteen who is adjudicated a delinquent, may, in the discretion of the court, be opened to inspection by anyone; provided, however, that the records of child traffic violations shall be kept in the full name of the violator and shall be open to inspection and publication in the same manner as adult traffic violations.

(b) Provided, however, that any child over the age of fourteen who is adjudicated a delinquent and has committed an act which would be a felony if the child was an adult shall be fingerprinted by the juvenile court with assistance of the county sheriff's department. Fingerprints made subsequent to adjudication as a delinquent shall be forwarded by the court to the Florida bureau of law enforcement and shall contain the child's name, address, date of birth, age, sex, and type of offense. The county sheriff's department in counties having a population of less than two hundred thousand shall not retain any copies of these fingerprints, nor shall it make copies available to any person or agency other than the Florida bureau of law enforcement. In counties having a population in excess of two hundred thousand, the fingerprints made pursuant to this act shall be kept in a separate file, and shall not be considered public records; provided further that the said department shall be subject to the same restrictions concerning the use of these fingerprints as is the Florida bureau of law enforcement. The Florida bureau of law enforcement shall maintain these fingerprints in a separate file and shall not make copies available to any person or agency, state or federal. The Florida bureau of law enforcement shall use these fingerprints only for the purpose of making comparison identifications of latent fingerprints which are forwarded to the bureau by other law enforcement agencies. If an identification is made, the Florida bureau of law enforcement shall advise the forwarding law enforcement agency of this fact, and the name and last known address of the child whose fingerprints match the latent prints forwarded to the bureau. The technician of the Florida bureau of law enforcement who makes a comparison identification shall be available for the purpose of giving testimony as to such identification. Fingerprints received pursuant to this section by the Florida bureau of law enforcement shall be kept until the child reaches his twenty-first birthday. At the end of such period they shall be destroyed. These fingerprints shall not be public records and no copies shall be made available to any person or agency at any time, except by subpoena or court order in any judicial proceeding.

(7) No child taken into custody who has not been adjudicated to be a dependent or delinquent child shall be detained in custody longer than two days, excluding Sundays and legal holidays, unless a special order so directing is made by the judge, finding that the release of the child would be inimical to the welfare of the child or of the public, stating the reasons for such finding. The reasons for such finding shall be reviewable by appeal or in habeas corpus proceedings.

39.04 Investigation.—Upon receiving reliable information that a child within the county or district wherein the juvenile court is established is a dependent or delinquent child, the counselor or an assistant counselor shall investigate and, if the investigation discloses reasonable ground for belief that the child is a dependent or delinquent child, and no petition with reference to the child has been filed in that juvenile court, shall file such a petition.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.05 Petition.—

(1) The counselor, any assistant counselor, or any other person may file in the juvenile court a petition stating that a child within the county or district wherein the juvenile court is established is a dependent or delinquent child.

(2) The petition must be in writing, signed and verified by the affidavit of the person signing it, made before the judge, counselor, or an assistant counselor of the court in which the petition is filed. The affidavit may be upon information and belief.

(3) The petition, all orders and other papers filed in the official records in any case shall be entitled "In the interest of _____, a child."

(4) The petition shall set forth the name, age, and residence of the child; the names and residence of the parents or legal custodians of the child; and the facts which are alleged to constitute the child a dependent or delinquent child. If any such information shall be unknown to the person signing the petition, the petition shall so state. The petition shall be sufficient if it clearly, fairly, and concisely states the substance of the facts which, if true, constitute the child a dependent or delinquent child, in such manner as to apprise the parents or legal custodians of the child, and to apprise the child if the child is of sufficient age and understanding, of the nature thereof, couched in narrative terms and not in the usual language of criminal informations and indictments.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.06 Process and service.—

(1) Personal appearance of any person in a hearing before the juvenile court shall obviate the necessity of serving process upon that person.

(2) Upon the filing of a petition containing allegations of facts which, if true, would constitute the child therein named a dependent or delinquent child found, living or domiciled within the county or district wherein the court is established, the court shall investigate and, if those facts appear to be true, a summons reciting briefly the substance of the petition shall be issued out of the juvenile court by the judge, counselor, or an assistant counselor, to the parents and legal custodians of the child named in the petition if their names and residences are ascertainable, and if not ascertainable then to any relative of the child whose name and residence is ascertainable, directing them to appear personally before the juvenile court at a time and place stated in the summons, which time shall not be less than twenty-four hours after service of the summons, and to bring the child before the juvenile court at that time and place if the child is not in custody by order of the juvenile court.

(3) If it appears from the petition that the child named therein is in such condition or surroundings that the welfare of the child requires that the child be taken into custody upon the filing of the petition, or if the petition alleges that the child has committed a violation of law, and the judge deems it advisable to do so, the judge may, by endorsement upon the summons, order that the child shall be taken into custody immediately, and in such case the person serving the summons shall forthwith take the child into custody.

(4) Witness subpoena shall be issued to any other person who will not otherwise appear and whose presence at the hearing is deemed necessary by the judge, counselor, or assistant counselor, or is requested by the child or the parent or legal custodian of the child.

(5) It shall not be necessary to the validity of any juvenile court proceedings concerning a child that the parents or legal custodians of the child be present, if diligent search and inquiry have been made without success by the court to ascertain their identity and residences, or if the parents and legal custodians evade service of or ignore summons, but in that event the judge, counselor, or assistant counselor who made the search and inquiry shall file in the case a certificate as to those facts, and the judge may appoint a guardian ad litem for the child. This subsection shall not modify the provisions of subsection (4) of §39.11.

(6) The jurisdiction of the juvenile court shall attach to the child and case when the summons is served upon a parent or legal custodian of the child, or when the child is taken into custody with or without service of summons and before or after filing of a petition, whichever first occurs, and thereafter the juvenile court may control the child and case in accordance with this chapter.

(7) The process, summons, warrant, and orders of the juvenile court shall run throughout the state, as fully and effectively as the process of the circuit court.

(8) All process, orders, commitments to an industrial school, and other papers issued out of the juvenile court or by the judge thereof in the capacity of committing magistrate may be served or executed, as the judge may direct, by the counselor or an assistant counselor of that juvenile court, or in the same manner as process issued out of a circuit court.

(9) No fee shall be paid for service of any process, orders, or other papers by a counselor or assistant counselor, but any expense incurred therein shall be paid out of the juvenile court fund, except expense incident to transportation of children to an industrial school, which expense shall be paid out of the fine and forfeiture fund of the county wherein the child was found. If any process, orders, or other papers are served or executed by any sheriff or constable, the sheriff or constable shall be compensated in accordance with law out of the funds of the county set aside for that purpose, and not out of the juvenile court fund.

39.07 No answer required.—No answer to the petition, nor any other pleading, need be filed by any child, parent, or legal custodian, but any matters which might be set forth in an answer or other pleading may be pleaded orally before the court or filed in writing as any such person may choose.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.08 Medical, psychiatric, and psychological examination and treatment.—After a petition has been filed, the judge may order the child named in the petition to be examined by a physician, psychiatrist, or psychologist willing to do so. After a child has been adjudicated to be a dependent or delinquent child, and before such adjudication with the consent of any parent or legal custodian of the child, the judge may order the child to be treated by a physician, psychiatrist, or psychologist willing to do so. For the purpose of either examination or treatment, the judge may order the child to be placed in a suitable place.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.09 Hearing.—

(1) The hearing shall be held as soon as practicable after the petition is filed, but reasonable delay for the purpose of investigation or procuring counsel upon request of the child or a parent or legal custodian of the child shall whenever practicable be granted.

(2) Hearings shall be conducted by the judge without a jury, applying the rules of evidence in use in equity cases in the circuit courts, and adjourning the hearings from time to time as necessary. All such hearings, except as hereinafter provided, shall be open to the public and no person shall be excluded therefrom except on special order of the judge, who, in his discretion may close any hearing to the public when the public interest or the welfare of the child, in his opinion, is best served by so doing. In any event, all hearings involving unwed mothers, custody or placement of illegitimate children shall remain confidential and closed to the public as heretofore. Hearings in such cases involving more than one child may be held simultaneously where the several children involved are related to each other or were involved in the same transactions. The child and the parents or legal custodians of the child may be examined separately and apart from each other. This subsection shall not be applicable to hearings before the judge as committing magistrate.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (2) nothing in this section shall prohibit the publication of proceedings in a juvenile court hearing.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951; §1, ch. 57-257; §1, ch. 67-509.

39.10 Adjudication.—

(1) If the judge shall find that the child named in a petition is not a dependent or delinquent child, the judge shall enter an order so finding and dismissing the case.

(2) If the judge shall find that the child named in a petition is a dependent or delinquent child, the judge shall incorporate that finding in an order entered in the case, briefly stating the facts upon which the finding is made, and the juvenile court shall thereafter have full jurisdiction to deal with the child as a dependent or delinquent child.

(3) An adjudication by a juvenile court that a child is a dependent or delinquent child shall not be deemed a conviction, nor shall the child be deemed to have been found guilty or to be a criminal by reason of that adjudication, nor shall that adjudication operate to impose upon the child any of the civil disabilities ordinarily imposed by or resulting from conviction, nor to disqualify or prejudice the child in any civil service application or appointment.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.11 Powers with reference to dependent or delinquent children.—

(1) When any child shall be adjudicated by a juvenile court to be a child in need of supervision, the juvenile court having jurisdiction of the child shall have power by order to place a child under supervision of the counselor only.

(2) When any child shall be adjudicated by a juvenile court to be a dependent or delinquent child, the juvenile court having jurisdiction of the child shall have the power, by order, to:

(a) Place a child, under the supervision of the counselor, either in the child's own home, or, the prospective custodian being willing, in the home of a relative of the child, or in some other suitable place, under such reasonable conditions as the judge may direct.

(b) Commit the child to a detention home, or to a licensed child caring institution willing to receive the child.

(c) Commit the child to an industrial school, if the board of commissioners of state institutions is willing to receive the child thereat.

(d) Permanently commit the child to a licensed child placing agency, or the state department of public welfare, willing to receive the child, for subsequent adoption, if the juvenile court finds that the child has been abandoned by the natural parent or parents, and legal guardian if any, of the child; or that the parent or parents, and legal guardian if any, have substantially and continuously or repeatedly refused, or though financially able have neglected, to give the child parental care and protection; or that the parent or parents, and legal guardian if any, are unfit by reason of their conduct or condition, which is seriously detrimental to the child's welfare; and if the court finds that it is manifestly to the best interest of the child to do so.

(e) Order the natural or adoptive parents of such child, or the natural father of an illegitimate child who has acknowledged his paternity in writing before the juvenile court judge, or guardian of such child's estate, if possessed of assets which under law may be disbursed for the care, support and maintenance of such child, to pay the person or institution having custody of such child reasonable sums of money at such intervals as the court may consider adequate and proper for the care, support, maintenance, training and education of such child. The court, in making such order, shall consider the circumstances and ability of such parents, or the natural father of an illegitimate child, to pay, and the value of assets of the guardianship estate of such child, and where such order affects the guardianship estate, a certified copy of such order shall be delivered to the county judge having jurisdiction of such guardianship estate.

(3) Any order made pursuant to subsections (2) (a) or (2) (b) may thereafter be modified or set aside by the juvenile court.

(4) Any commitment made to an industrial school shall be for an indeterminate period of time, any child so committed to be released when directed by the board of commissioners of state institutions rather than upon the order of the juvenile court committing the child, but no child shall be held in an industrial school under a commitment from a juvenile court after becoming twenty-one years of age. The juvenile court, in committing a child, shall not lose jurisdiction, but shall discontinue exercising active control over the child while the child is committed to the school. The board of commissioners of state institutions shall notify the juvenile court which committed the child to the school, at least thirty days before releasing the child, and the juvenile court may thereupon resume control and thereafter make orders for the supervision of the child as may be proper.

(5) Before the juvenile court may permanently commit a dependent or delinquent child to a licensed child placing agency or the state department of public welfare for subsequent adoption, in addition to the other requirements set forth in this chapter the following requirements shall be met:

(a) Notice must be served upon the known living parents and legal custodians of the child, and if all of these persons be dead or unknown then upon a relative of the child, in the manner prescribed by law for service of summons in chancery, specifically notifying them that a petition has been filed for the permanent commitment of the child to a licensed child placing agency or the state department of public welfare for subsequent adoption, and commanding them to appear in that court on a day named in the notice not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days after service of the notice, and to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

(b) In the event that those persons cannot be personally served with notice in the manner prescribed in paragraph (a), the judge or counselor shall cause the notice to be published once each week for four consecutive weeks (four publications being sufficient) prior to the return date, in some newspaper published in the county or district in which the juvenile court is established. The published notice shall command those persons to appear in court on a day named in the notice not less than twenty-eight nor more than sixty days from the date thereof, and the notice shall otherwise be identical with the form of notice prescribed in paragraph (a). If the natural parents, legal custodians, and relatives be unknown or dead, the published notice shall be directed to "whom it may concern." The judge or counselor shall mail a copy of the published notice to each person to whom the notice is directed for whom an address can be obtained after diligent search and inquiry, and shall file in the case a certificate of constructive service. Service by publication as specified herein shall be as effectual as personal service within this state of the notice. The cost of publishing the notice shall be paid out of the juvenile court fund upon approval of the judge or counselor, or the judge may require the cost thereof to be paid by the licensed child placing agency or state department of public welfare desiring entry of the order.

(c) Notice as prescribed by this section may be waived, in the discretion of the judge, where the living parents, and any legal guardian, of the child, execute, before two witnesses and a notary public or other officer authorized to take acknowledgments, a written surrender of the child to a licensed child placing agency or the state department of public welfare.

(6) A licensed child placing agency or the state department of public welfare to which a child is permanently committed for subsequent adoption in accordance with this chapter may place the child in a family home for prospective subsequent adoption, and may thereafter become a party to any proceeding for the legal adoption of the child and may appear in any court where the adoption proceeding is pending and consent to the adoption, and that consent alone shall in all cases be sufficient. A permanent order of commitment, whether pursuant to consent or after notice served as herein prescribed, shall permanently deprive the parents and legal guardian of any right to the child. In any subsequent adoption proceedings the parents and legal guardian shall not be entitled to any notice thereof, nor shall they be entitled to knowledge, at any time after the permanent order of commitment is entered, of the whereabouts of the child or the identity or location of any person having the custody of or having adopted the child, and in any habeas corpus or other proceeding involving the child brought by any parent or legal guardian of the child no agent of the licensed child placing agency or state department of public welfare shall be compelled to divulge that information, but may be compelled to produce the child before a court of competent jurisdiction if the child is still subject to the guardianship of the licensed child placing agency or state department of public welfare. The entry of the permanent order of commitment shall not entitle the licensed child placing agency or state department of public welfare to guardianship of the estate or property of the child, but the licensed child placing agency or state department of public welfare shall be the guardian of the person of the child, and the juvenile court shall no longer exercise jurisdiction over the child after entry of such order.

(7) The juvenile court may at any time enter an order ending its jurisdiction over any child.

39.12 Seal; records; privileged information.—

(1) The juvenile court is a court of record, having a seal, and the judge, counselor, and assistant counselors thereof shall each have power to administer oaths and affirmations. The seal shall be prescribed and furnished by the board of county commissioners of the county in which the court is established, or, in case of a district juvenile court, by the board of county commissioners of the county in which the court is principally held.

(2) The juvenile court shall make and keep records of all cases brought before it and shall preserve the records pertaining to a child until ten years after the last entry was made and may then destroy them, except that records of cases where orders were entered permanently depriving a parent of the custody of a child shall be preserved permanently. The juvenile court shall make official records, consisting of all petitions and orders filed in a case and any other pleadings, certificates, proofs of publication, summons, warrants and other writs which may be filed therein and shall make social records, consisting of records of investigation and treatment and other confidential information not forming part of the official records. In addition to the foregoing, the juvenile court shall keep a record to be designated "juvenile court statistical card" as to each child on whom a referral has been filed in the court, setting forth full statistical data concerning such child and the grounds for the proceedings involved. The statistical card shall be in such form as provided by the division of youth services. Said card shall on or before the tenth day of each month be delivered to the department of statistics and research of the division of youth services of this state and shall be used by the department only for the purpose of obtaining the statistical information. The cards shall not be public records and shall be confidential information while in the possession of the department. The department shall not take or retain any names or addresses from any such cards or other information that would identify a child. It may publish the statistical data so obtained as to any or all counties reporting under this law.

(3) Juvenile court records except records of traffic violations, shall not be open to inspection by the public. All records, except those for traffic violations, shall be inspected only upon order of the judge, by persons deemed by the judge to have a proper interest therein, except that a child and the parents or legal custodians of the child and their attorneys shall always have the right to inspect and copy any official record pertaining to the child. The judge may permit authorized representatives of recognized organizations compiling statistics for proper purposes to inspect and make abstracts from official records, under whatever conditions upon their use and disposition the judge may deem proper, and may punish by contempt proceedings any violation of those conditions.

(4) All information obtained in discharge of official duty by any judge, counselor, assistant counselor, or employee of any juvenile court shall be privileged, and shall not be disclosed to anyone other than the authorized personnel of the juvenile court and others entitled under this chapter to receive that information, except upon order of the judge.

(5) All orders of the court shall be in writing and signed by the judge, except that the counselor or assistant counselor may sign a summons, witness subpoenas, or notice to appear.

(6) No juvenile court record shall be admissible in evidence in any civil or criminal proceeding in any other court, except that:

(a) Orders permanently depriving a parent of the custody of a child and committing the child to a licensed child placing agency or the state department of public welfare for adoption shall be admissible in evidence in subsequent adoption proceedings relating to the child;

(b) Orders transferring a child to another court for trial shall be admissible in evidence in the other court, but shall create no presumption as to the guilt of the child, nor shall same be read to or commented upon in the presence of the jury in any trial in the other court.

(c) Orders binding an adult over for trial on a criminal charge, made by the judge as a committing magistrate, shall be admissible in evidence in the court to which the adult is bound over;

(d) Juvenile court records forming a part of the record on appeal shall be used in the appellate court in the manner hereinafter provided;

(e) Juvenile court records necessary therefor shall be admissible in evidence in other courts in any case where a person is being tried upon a charge of having committed perjury in testifying in the juvenile court.

cf.—§965.01(2) Division of youth services.

39.13 Contempt.—The juvenile court shall have the same power to punish for contempt as do the circuit courts, and may punish for contempt any person interfering with the administration of or violating any provision of this chapter or order of the court relative thereto.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.14 Appeal.—

(1) Any child and any parent or legal custodian of any child affected by an order of the juvenile court, excluding such order as the judge may make as committing magistrate, may appeal to the appropriate district court of appeal.

(2) Notice of appeal shall be filed in writing in the juvenile court within ten days after entry of the order appealed from, accompanied by the fee required by law to be paid to the clerk of the district court of appeal upon filing an appeal.

(3) Within ten days after the filing of the notice of appeal in the juvenile court, the judge or counselor shall transmit the notice of appeal, together with all original papers filed in the official record of the case, and any narrative statement of the evidence which the juvenile court judge may desire to prepare and file therein, the stenographic report of the testimony if any was made, and the appeal fee deposited by the appellant, to the clerk of the district court of appeal.

(4) On appeal no new evidence may be presented, but the appeal shall be heard upon the law and the facts as shown by the official records of the juvenile court.

(5) The attorney general shall represent the state and the juvenile court upon appeal, and shall be notified of the appeal by the judge or counselor when the notice of appeal is filed in the juvenile court.

(6) The taking of an appeal shall not operate as a supersedeas in any case, except that a permanent order of commitment to a licensed child-placing agency or department of public welfare for subsequent adoption shall be suspended while the appeal is pending, but the child shall continue in custody under the order until the appeal is decided.

(7) On appeal, the district court of appeal shall decide only whether a lawful order has been entered by the juvenile court, and shall not substitute its judgment for that of the juvenile court in discretionary matters.

(8) No briefs or papers other than the juvenile court file need be filed in the district court of appeal unless the said court shall specially so direct, but briefs may be filed by the appellant or the attorney general if either desires to do so. At any time after the juvenile court file shall have been received by the clerk of the district court of appeal, the appellant or the attorney general, after notice to the other, may apply to the said court to set a date for the argument on the appeal and the court shall dispose of the proceedings as expeditiously as possible.

(9) The case on appeal shall be docketed, and any papers filed in the appellate court shall be entitled, with the initials but not the name of the child and the juvenile court case number, and the papers shall remain sealed in the office of the clerk of the appellate court when not in use by the appellate court and shall not be open to public inspection. The decision of the appellate court shall be likewise entitled, and shall refer to the child only by initials and juvenile court case number.

(10) The original order of the appellate court, with all papers filed in the case on appeal, shall remain in the office of the clerk of the said court, sealed and not open to inspection except by order of the appellate court. The clerk of the appellate court shall return to the juvenile court all papers transmitted to the said court from the juvenile court, together with a certified copy of the order of the appellate court.

(11) The juvenile court, upon receipt of the certified copy of the order of the appellate court, shall forthwith take action in accordance with the order and decision of the appellate court by either dismissing the case and returning the child to the person previously in custody or by making further orders as may be appropriate.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951; §§7, chs. 63-449, 63-559.

(2) The judge of each separate juvenile court shall be elected by the qualified electors of the county or district in which the court is established, as other county and state officials are elected, for a term of four years.

(3) All persons serving as judge of separate juvenile courts on October 1, 1951, shall continue to serve in that capacity during the terms for which they were appointed or elected. At the general election next preceding the expiration of each of those terms, the incumbent or a successor shall be elected, to take office upon the expiration of that term and serve for four years, and thereafter, in like manner, the judge shall be elected every four years, taking office upon the date of expiration of the term as fixed by the special acts relating to those separate juvenile courts.

(4) In the event a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of a separate juvenile court prior to the expiration of the term for which the judge was elected or appointed, the governor shall appoint a person who is qualified as prescribed in subsection (1) of this section, selecting that person with reference to that person's high moral character and experience in and understanding of problems of child and family welfare, juvenile delinquency, and community organization, to serve until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the next general election, and the vacancy shall be filled at the next general election for the unexpired term, whether or not a successor for a full four-year term is also being elected at the same general election to take office at the expiration of the unexpired term.

(5) If any separate juvenile court shall be created or established in addition to those existing upon the effective date of this chapter, the governor shall appoint as judge thereof a person qualified as provided in subsection (1) of this section, selecting that person with reference to the qualities mentioned in subsection (4) of this section, to serve until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the next general election, and at the next general election and every four years thereafter the judge shall be elected for a full four-year term, taking office on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the general election.

(6) In the event that the judge of any separate juvenile court shall be temporarily unable to act, or shall be absent from the county or district in which the court is established, the county judge of the county, or in the case of a district court the county judge of the county wherein the separate juvenile court is principally held, or any circuit judge of the circuit wherein the separate juvenile court is established, shall act as juvenile court judge without compensation therefor. In any county in which no separate juvenile court is established, and the county judge is juvenile court judge, in the event that the county judge shall be temporarily unable to act as juvenile court judge or be absent from the county, any circuit judge of the circuit including the county shall act as juvenile court judge without compensation therefor.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.16 Qualifications, selection and tenure of personnel other than judges.—

(1) Each counselor and assistant counselor of a separate juvenile court shall either have served as counselor or assistant counselor of a juvenile court in Florida, or shall have a bachelor's degree from a college or university of recognized standing, or shall have four years of experience in work with children. (3) In determining whether to approve an applicant, the juvenile court merit board shall require the applicant to submit a written application, and may require an applicant to submit to written examination and an oral interview, to the end that counselors and assistant counselors shall be selected on merit, with reference to their academic and professional training, experience, and ability in and understanding of problems of family and child welfare, juvenile delinquency, and community organization, and their qualifications of personality to work well with children, parents, and the community. The reasonable expenses of the juvenile court merit board in so doing shall be paid out of the juvenile court fund upon approval of the judge.

(4) With the approval of the judge, the juvenile court merit board for the county in which the court is established or principally held shall adopt rules governing the discharge of counselors and assistant counselors, to the end that those personnel shall be discharged for good cause only, which rules shall be filed in the juvenile court records and may be amended prospectively but not retroactively at any time.

(5) Employees of the juvenile court, other than counselors and assistant counselors, shall be selected and employed by the counselor with the approval of the judge if their duties are performed primarily under the supervision of the counselor, and shall be selected and employed by the judge if their duties are performed primarily directly under the supervision of the judge.

(6) In any county where a civil service law may be in effect as to county employees, the provisions of that civil service law shall be applicable to the counselor, assistant counselors, and other employees of the juvenile court established or principally held in that county, except persons performing the duties of counselor or assistant counselor under gubernatorial appointment upon the effective date of this act during the terms for which such persons were so appointed. The juvenile court merit board shall not function in those counties, but counselors and assistant counselors shall be qualified, and appointments shall be made, as specified in this section, from a list of eligible applicants approved by the civil service board in accordance with that civil service act.

(7) The provisions of the state or county officers and employees retirement system, whichever may be applicable, shall continue to apply to the counselor, assistant counselors, and other employees of the juvenile court, as well as to the judge thereof.

(9) The number and salaries of assistant counselors, and the number, salaries, titles and duties of other employees, shall be designated by the counselor with the approval of the judge, or by the judge in the case of those employees whose duties are performed primarily directly under the supervision of the judge, within the limits of the juvenile court fund.

(1) The board of county commissioners of each county shall appropriate each fiscal year commencing October 1, 1955, from the general fund or other fund of the county as the board may choose, reasonable and adequate funds for the expense of operating the juvenile court in that county. In the event that any separate juvenile court shall be created or established by the legislature in and for any district composed of two or more counties, the board of county commissioners of each county within the district shall appropriate each fiscal year reasonable and adequate funds for their proportionate share in operating the juvenile court in that district. The sum appropriated shall be known as the juvenile court fund.

(2) Out of the juvenile court fund the board of county commissioners of each county may pay such annual salaries to the judge as shall not exceed the amounts specified in this subsection, in twelve equal monthly payments, and in case of a district juvenile court, each county paying only its proportionate share of such salary.

(a) In counties or districts having a population of 30,999 or less, the judge may be paid an annual salary not exceeding an amount equal to one hundred twenty dollars for each full 1,000 population in the county or district.

(b) In counties or districts having a population of at least 31,000 but not exceeding 50,999, the judge may be paid an annual salary not exceeding an amount equal to thirty six hundred dollars plus fifty dollars for each full 1,000 population over 30,000 in the county or district.

(c) In counties or districts having a population of at least 51,000 but not exceeding 200,999 the judge may be paid an annual salary not exceeding an amount equal to forty six hundred dollars plus twenty dollars for each full 1,000 population over 50,000 in the county or district.

(d) In counties or districts having a population of at least 201,000, the judge may be paid an annual salary not exceeding an amount equal to seventy six hundred dollars plus twelve dollars for each full 1,000 population over 200,000 in the county or district.

(e) The population of a county or district, for the purpose of this subsection (2), shall be the population thereof according to the latest preceding county, state or federal census; and reference to "each full 1,000 population" means that fractional parts of one thousand shall be disregarded in computing the population of a county or district, e.g., a county with a population of 30,999 shall be considered as having a population of 30,000.

(f) The counselor shall be paid an annual salary fixed by the juvenile judge and approved by the board of county commissioners and shall be paid in twelve equal monthly installments.

(3) Out of the juvenile court fund the board of county commissioners of each county may pay the annual or monthly salaries of assistant counselors and other employees of the juvenile court specified by the counselor with the approval of the judge, and may pay the travel and office expense of the juvenile court specified by the counselor with the approval of the judge, within the limits of the total appropriation.

(4) The salaries of the judge and counselor herein specified, the salaries paid to the assistant counselors and other employees, and the travel and other expenses paid to any juvenile court personnel in accordance with this section, shall be the entire compensation of those persons for their services in those capacities, and none of them shall receive or charge any fees in addition thereto for those services.

(5) In counties where the county judge is juvenile court judge, the salary of the juvenile court judge may be paid to the judge in addition to compensation received in the capacity of county judge.

(6) Any change in the maximum permissible appropriation for the juvenile court fund or in the maximum permissible salaries of the judge or counselor which is occasioned by a new state or federal census shall become effective at the beginning of the next fiscal year, on October 1 following immediately after the taking of the census.

(7) Notwithstanding any other provisions in this section, no judge of a separate juvenile court shall be paid, as salary for service as juvenile court judge, an annual sum larger than the annual salary paid to the circuit judge drawing the largest annual salary in the judicial circuit in which the separate juvenile court is established, and no county judge acting as juvenile court judge shall be paid, as salary for service as juvenile court judge, an annual sum which, together with the compensation of that county judge for services as county judge, will exceed the annual salary paid to the circuit judge drawing the largest annual salary in the judicial circuit in which that county judge is acting as juvenile court judge. For the purposes of this subsection, the circuit judge's salary includes any sums paid as salary by any county or by the state.

(8) The appropriation specified in subsection (1) of this section shall not include such items as office rent, operation of parental homes or detention quarters, payment of sheriff's fees for service of juvenile court process or writs, or other items of similar nature, but that appropriation shall include salaries and travel expense of juvenile court personnel, ordinary office expense of the juvenile court, and other items of expense provided in this chapter to be paid for out of the juvenile court fund.

(9) The board of county commissioners of each county may levy taxes necessary to raise the money appropriated in subsection (1) of this section, for the fiscal year commencing October 1, 1951, and for each subsequent fiscal year.

(10) If any special act now or hereafter in effect shall prescribe the salary or travel expense to be paid to a judge, counselor, assistant counselor, or other employee of any juvenile court, or any other item of the expense of operation of any juvenile court, nothing in this section shall be construed to require or permit the payment of any lesser amounts than are prescribed by that special act, and no lesser amounts than as prescribed in that special act shall be paid, but larger amounts than as prescribed in that special act may be paid if in accordance with the other subsections of this section, the counselor being paid no lesser amounts than may be provided by that special act to be paid to the chief or head probation officer, and assistant counselors being paid no lesser amounts than may be provided by that special act to be paid to assistant probation officers, regardless of the titles by which such personnel may be called in that special act.

39.181 Laws not affected.—No provision of §39.18(1), (2) shall be construed to affect any provisions of a special act or general act of local application of the legislature heretofore enacted or hereinafter enacted relating to any juvenile court or juvenile and domestic relations court in the state.

History.—§9, ch. 29900, 1955.

39.19 Court and witness fees.—

(1) In all proceedings under this chapter except those proceedings held before the judge in the capacity of committing magistrate, no court fees shall be charged against, and no witness fees shall be allowed to, any party to a petition or any parent or legal custodian or child named in a summons. Other witnesses shall be paid the witness fees fixed by law, out of funds of the county appropriated for that purpose and not out of the juvenile court fund.

(2) In proceedings before the judge in the capacity of committing magistrate, the fees provided by law shall be paid to witnesses, and for service of process and other functions performed by the sheriff, out of county funds appropriated for that purpose and not out of the juvenile court fund.

History.—§1, ch. 26880, 1951.

39.20 Purpose.—The purpose of this chapter is to protect society more effectively by substituting for retributive punishment methods of training and treatment directed toward the correction and rehabilitation of children who violate the laws; to assure to children the care, guidance and control, preferably in each child's own home, which will conduce to the child's welfare and the best interests of the state; to assure that a child removed from the control of the child's parent shall receive care, custody, and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given to the child by the parent, and in all cases where a child must be permanently removed from the custody of the parents of the child, that the child be placed in an approved family home and be made a member of the family by adoption.

To this end, it is the expressed intent of the legislature that this chapter be liberally interpreted and construed in conformity with its declared purpose.

39.25 Interstate compact on juveniles; implementing legislation; legislative findings and policy.—

(1) It is hereby found and declared:

(a) That juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control, or who have absconded, escaped or run away, are likely to endanger their own health, morals and welfare, and the health, morals and welfare of others;

(b) That the cooperation of this state with other states is necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and of the people of this state.

(2) It shall therefore be the policy of this state, in adopting the interstate compact on juveniles, to cooperate fully with other states:

(a) In returning juveniles to such other states whenever their return is sought; and

(b) In accepting the return of juveniles whenever a juvenile residing in this state is found or apprehended in another state and in taking all measures to initiate proceedings for the return of such juveniles.

History.—§1, ch. 57-298.

39.26 Execution of compact.—The governor is hereby authorized and directed to execute a compact on behalf of this state with any other state or states legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

INTERSTATE COMPACT ON JUVENILES ARTICLE I

FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.—Juveniles who are not under proper supervision and control, or who have absconded, escaped or run away, are likely to endanger their own health, morals and welfare, and the health, morals and welfare of others. The cooperation of the states party to this compact is therefore necessary to provide for the welfare and protection of juveniles and of the public with respect to (1) cooperative supervision of delinquent juveniles on probation or parole; (2) the return, from one state to another, of delinquent juveniles who have escaped or absconded; (3) the return, from one state to another, of nondelinquent juveniles who have run away from home; and (4) additional measures for the protection of juveniles and of the public, which any two or more of the party states may find desirable to undertake cooperatively. In carrying out the provisions of this compact the party states shall be guided by the noncriminal, reformatory and protective policies which guide their laws concerning delinquent, neglected or dependent juveniles generally. It shall be the policy of the states party to this compact to cooperate and observe their respective responsibilities for the prompt return and acceptance of juveniles and delinquent juveniles who become subject to the provisions of this compact. The provisions of this compact shall be reasonably and liberally construed to accomplish the foregoing purposes.

ARTICLE II

EXISTING RIGHTS AND REMEDIES.—All remedies and procedures provided by this compact shall be in addition to and not in substitution for other rights, remedies and procedures, and shall not be in derogation of parental rights and responsibilities.

ARTICLE III

DEFINITIONS.—For the purposes of this compact, "delinquent juveniles" means any juvenile who has been adjudged delinquent and who, at the time the provisions of this compact are invoked, is still subject to the jurisdiction of the court that has made such adjudication or to the jurisdiction or supervision of an agency or institution pursuant to an order of such court; "probation or parole" means any kind of conditional release of juveniles authorized under the laws of the states party hereto; "court" means any court having jurisdiction over delinquent, neglected or dependent children; "state" means any state, territory or possessions of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico; and "residence" or any variant thereof means a place at which a home or regular place of abode is maintained.

ARTICLE IV

RETURN OF RUNAWAYS.—

(1) The parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody of a juvenile who has not been adjudged delinquent but who has run away without the consent of such parent, guardian, person or agency may petition the appropriate court in the demanding state for the issuance of a requisition for his return. The petition shall state the name and age of the juvenile, the name of the petitioner and the basis of entitlement to the juvenile's custody, the circumstances of his running away, his location if known at the time application is made, and such other facts as may tend to show that the juvenile who has run away is endangering his own welfare or the welfare of others and is not an emancipated minor. The petition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the document or documents on which the petitioner's entitlement to the juvenile's custody is based, such as birth certificates, letters of guardianship, or custody decrees. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such petition. The judge of the court to which this application is made may hold a hearing thereon to determine whether for the purposes of this compact the petitioner is entitled to the legal custody of the juvenile, whether or not it appears that the juvenile has in fact run away without consent, whether or not he is an emancipated minor, and whether or not it is in the best interest of the juvenile to compel his return to the state. If the judge determines, either with or without a hearing, that the juvenile should be returned, he shall present to the appropriate court or to the executive authority of the state where the juvenile is alleged to be located a written requisition for the return of such juvenile. Such requisition shall set forth the name and age of the juvenile, the determination of the court that the juvenile has run away without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, and that it is in the best interest and for the protection of such juvenile that he is returned. In the event that a proceeding for the adjudication of the juvenile as a delinquent, neglected or dependent juvenile is pending in the court at the time when such juvenile runs away, the court may issue a requisition for the return of such juvenile upon its own motion, regardless of the consent of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to legal custody, reciting therein the nature and circumstances of the pending proceeding. The requisition shall in every case be executed in duplicate and shall be signed by the judge. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of such court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a juvenile who has run away, the court or the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such juvenile. Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge of a court in the state, who shall inform him of the demand made for his return, and who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such juvenile over to the officer whom the court demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

Upon reasonable information that a person is a juvenile who has run away from another state party to this compact without the consent of a parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to his legal custody, such juvenile may be taken into custody without a requisition and brought forthwith before a judge of the appropriate court who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such juvenile and who shall determine after a hearing whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person, subject to the order of the court, for his own protection and welfare, for such a time not exceeding ninety days as will enable his return to another state party to this compact pursuant to a requisition for his return from a court of that state. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a juvenile who has run away, there is pending in the state wherein he is found any criminal charge, or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed in such state, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he ran away, the juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state.

(2) The state to which a juvenile is returned under this article shall be responsible for payment of the transportation costs of such return.

(3) "Juvenile" as used in this article means any person who is a minor under the law of the state of residence of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to the legal custody of such minor.

ARTICLE V

RETURN OF ESCAPEES AND ABSCONDERS.—

(1) The appropriate person or authority from whose probation or parole supervision a delinquent juvenile has absconded or from whose institutional custody he has escaped shall present to the appropriate court or to executive authority of the state where the delinquent juvenile is alleged to be located a written requisition for the return of such delinquent juvenile. Such requisition shall state the name and age of the delinquent juvenile, the particulars of his adjudication as a delinquent juvenile, the circumstances of the breach of the terms of his probation or parole or of his escape from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision, and the location of such delinquent juvenile, if known, at the time requisition is made. The requisition shall be verified by affidavit, shall be executed in duplicate, and shall be accompanied by two certified copies of the judgment, formal adjudication, or order of commitment which subjects such delinquent juvenile to probation or parole or to the legal custody of the institution or agency concerned. Such further affidavits and other documents as may be deemed proper may be submitted with such requisition. One copy of the requisition shall be filed with the compact administrator of the demanding state, there to remain on file subject to the provisions of law governing records of the appropriate court. Upon the receipt of a requisition demanding the return of a delinquent juvenile who has absconded or escaped the court or the executive authority to whom the requisition is addressed shall issue an order to any peace officer or other appropriate person directing him to take into custody and detain such delinquent juvenile. Such detention order must substantially recite the facts necessary to the validity of its issuance hereunder. No delinquent juvenile detained upon such order shall be delivered over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him, unless he shall first be taken forthwith before a judge of an appropriate court in the state, who shall inform him of the demand made for his return and who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for him. If the judge of such court shall find that the requisition is in order, he shall deliver such delinquent juvenile over to the officer whom the appropriate person or authority demanding him shall have appointed to receive him. The judge, however, may fix a reasonable time to be allowed for the purpose of testing the legality of the proceeding.

Upon reasonable information that a person is a delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision in any state party to this compact, such person may be taken into custody in any other state party to this compact without a requisition. But in such event, he must be taken forthwith before a judge of the appropriate court, who may appoint counsel or guardian ad litem for such person and who shall determine, after a hearing, whether sufficient cause exists to hold the person subject to the order of the court for such a time, not exceeding ninety days, as will enable his detention under a detention order issued on a requisition pursuant to this article. If, at the time when a state seeks the return of a delinquent juvenile who has either absconded while on probation or parole or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision, there is pending in the state wherein he is detained any criminal charge or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for an act committed in such state, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned without the consent of such state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of any state party to this compact, upon the establishment of their authority and the identity of the delinquent juvenile being returned, shall be permitted to transport such delinquent juvenile through any and all states party to this compact, without interference. Upon his return to the state from which he escaped or absconded, the delinquent juvenile shall be subject to such further proceedings as may be appropriate under the laws of that state.

(2) The state to which a delinquent juvenile is returned under this article shall be responsible for payment of the transportation costs of such return.

ARTICLE VI

VOLUNTARY RETURN PROCEDURE.—

Any delinquent juvenile who has absconded while on probation or parole, or escaped from an institution or agency vested with his legal custody or supervision in any state party to this compact, and any juvenile who has run away from any state party to this compact, who is taken into custody without a requisition in another state party to this compact under the provisions of article IV(1) or of article V (1), may consent to his immediate return to the state from which he absconded, escaped or ran away. Such consent shall be given by the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel or guardian ad litem if any, by executing or subscribing a writing, in the presence of a judge of the appropriate court, which states that the juvenile or delinquent juvenile and his counsel or guardian ad litem, if any, consent to his return to the demanding state. Before such consent shall be executed or subscribed, however, the judge, in the presence of counsel or guardian ad litem, if any, shall inform the juvenile or delinquent juvenile of his rights under this compact. When the consent has been duly executed, it shall be forwarded to and filed with the compact administrator of the state in which the court is located and the judge shall direct the officer having the juvenile or delinquent juvenile in custody to deliver him to the duly accredited officer or officers of the state demanding his return, and shall cause to be delivered to such officer or officers a copy of the consent. The court may, however, upon the request of the state to which the juvenile or delinquent juvenile is being returned, order him to return unaccompanied to such state and shall provide him with a copy of such court order; in such event a copy of the consent shall be forwarded to the compact administrator of the state to which said juvenile or delinquent juvenile is ordered to return.

ARTICLE VII

COOPERATIVE SUPERVISION OF PROBATIONERS AND PAROLEES.—

(1) The duly constituted judicial and administrative authorities of a state party to this compact (herein called "sending state") may permit any delinquent juvenile within such state, placed on probation or parole, to reside in any other state party to this compact (herein called "receiving state") while on probation or parole, and the receiving state shall accept such delinquent juvenile, if the parent, guardian or person entitled to the legal custody of such delinquent juvenile is residing or undertakes to reside within the receiving state. Before granting such permission, opportunity shall be given to the receiving state to make such investigations as it deems necessary. The authorities of the sending state shall send to the authorities of the receiving state copies of pertinent court orders, social case studies and all other available information which may be of value to and assist the receiving state in supervising a probationer or parolee under this compact. A receiving state, in its discretion, may agree to accept supervision of a probationer or parolee in cases where the parent, guardian or person entitled to the legal custody of the delinquent juvenile is not a resident of the receiving state, and if so accepted the sending state may transfer supervision accordingly.

(2) Each receiving state will assume the duties of visitation and of supervision over any such delinquent juvenile and in the exercise of those duties will be governed by the same standards of visitation and supervision that prevail for its own delinquent juveniles released on probation or parole.

(3) After consultation between the appropriate authorities of the sending state and of the receiving state as to the desirability and necessity of returning such a delinquent juvenile, the duly accredited officers of a sending state may enter a receiving state and there apprehend and retake any such delinquent juvenile on probation or parole. For that purpose, no formalities will be required, other than establishing the authority of the officer and the identity of the delinquent juvenile to be retaken and returned. The decision of the sending state to retake a delinquent juvenile on probation or parole shall be conclusive upon and not reviewable within the receiving state, but if, at the time the sending state seeks to retake a delinquent juvenile on probation or parole, there is pending against him within the receiving state any criminal charge or any proceeding to have him adjudicated a delinquent juvenile for any act committed in such state, or if he is suspected of having committed within such state a criminal offense or an act of juvenile delinquency, he shall not be returned, without the consent of the receiving state until discharged from prosecution or other form of proceeding, imprisonment, detention or supervision for such offense or juvenile delinquency. The duly accredited officers of the sending state shall be permitted to transport delinquent juveniles being so returned through any and all states party to this compact, without interference.

(4) The sending state shall be responsible under this article for paying the costs of transporting any delinquent juvenile to the receiving state or of returning any delinquent juvenile to the sending state.

ARTICLE VIII

RESPONSIBILITY FOR COSTS.—

(1) The provisions of articles IV(2), V(2) and VII(4) of this compact shall not be construed to alter or affect any internal relationship among the departments, agencies and officers of and in the government of a party state, or between a party state and its subdivisions, as to the payment of costs, or responsibilities therefor.

(2) Nothing in this compact shall be construed to prevent any party state or subdivision thereof from asserting any right against any person, agency or other entity in regard to costs for which such party state or subdivision thereof may be responsible pursuant to articles IV(2), V(2) or VII(4) of this compact.

ARTICLE IX

DETENTION PRACTICES.—To every extent possible, it shall be the policy of states party to this compact that no juvenile or delinquent juvenile shall be placed or detained in any prison, jail or lockup nor be detained or transported in association with criminal, vicious or dissolute persons.

ARTICLE X

SUPPLEMENTARY AGREEMENTS.—The duly constituted administrative authorities of a state party to this compact may enter into supplementary agreements with any other state or states party hereto for the cooperative care, treatment and rehabilitation of delinquent juveniles whenever they shall find that such agreements will improve the facilities or programs available for such care, treatment and rehabilitation. Such care, treatment and rehabilitation may be provided in an institution located within any state entering into such supplementary agreement. Such supplementary agreements shall (1) provide the rates to be paid for the care, treatment and custody of such delinquent juveniles, taking into consideration the character of facilities, services and subsistence furnished; (2) provide that the delinquent juvenile shall be given a court hearing prior to his being sent to another state for care, treatment and custody; (3) provide that the state receiving such a delinquent juvenile in one of its institutions shall act solely as agent for the state sending such delinquent juvenile; (4) provide that the sending state shall at all times retain jurisdiction over delinquent juveniles sent to an institution in another state; (5) provide for reasonable inspection of such institutions by the sending state; (6) provide that the consent of the parent, guardian, person or agency entitled to the legal custody of said delinquent juvenile shall be secured prior to his being sent to another state; and (7) make provision for such other matters and details as shall be necessary to protect the rights and equities of such delinquent juveniles and of the cooperating states.

ARTICLE XI

ACCEPTANCE OF FEDERAL AND OTHER AID.—Any state party to this compact may accept any and all donations, gifts and grants of money, equipment and services from the federal or any local government, or any agency thereof and from any person, firm or corporation, for any of the purposes and functions of this compact, and may receive and utilize the same subject to the terms, conditions and regulations governing such donations, gifts and grants.

ARTICLE XII

COMPACT ADMINISTRATORS.—The governor of each state party to this compact shall designate an officer who, acting jointly with like officers of other party states, shall promulgate rules and regulations to carry out more effectively the terms and provisions of this compact.

ARTICLE XIII

EXECUTION OF COMPACT.—This compact shall become operative immediately upon its execution by any state as between it and any other state or states so executing. When executed it shall have the full force and effect of law within such state, the form of execution to be in accordance with the laws of the executing state.

ARTICLE XIV

RENUNCIATION.—This compact shall continue in force and remain binding upon each executing state until renounced by it. Renunciation of this compact shall be by the same authority which executed it, by sending six months notice in writing of its intention to withdraw from the compact to the other states party hereto. The duties and obligations of a renouncing state under article VII hereof shall continue as to parolees and probationers residing therein at the time of withdrawal until retaken or finally discharged. Supplementary agreements entered into under article X hereof shall be subject to renunciation as provided by such supplementary agreements, and shall not be subject to the six months renunciation notice of the present article.

ARTICLE XV

SEVERABILITY.—The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any participating state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state participating therein, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining states and in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

ARTICLE XVI

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.—This article shall provide additional remedies, and shall be binding only as among and between those party states which specifically execute the same.

For the purposes of this article, "child," as used herein, means any minor within the jurisdictional age limits of any court in the home state.

When any child is brought before a court of a state of which such child is not a resident, and such state is willing to permit such child's return to the home state of such child, such home state, upon being so advised by the state in which such proceeding is pending, shall immediately institute proceedings to determine the residence and jurisdictional facts as to such child in such home state, and upon finding that such child is in fact a resident of said state and subject to the jurisdiction of the court thereof, shall within five days authorize the return of such child to the home state, and to the parent or custodial agency legally authorized to accept such custody in such home state, and at the expense of such home state, to be paid from such funds as such home state may procure, designate, or provide, prompt action being of the essence.

ARTICLE XVII

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.—

(1) This amendment shall provide additional remedies, and shall be binding only as among and between those party states which specifically execute the same.

(2) All provisions and procedures of articles V and VI of the interstate compact on juveniles shall be construed to apply to any juvenile charged with being a delinquent by reason of a violation of any criminal law. Any juvenile, charged with being a delinquent by reason of violating any criminal law, shall be returned to the requesting state upon a requisition to the state where the juvenile may be found. A petition in such case shall be filed in a court of competent jurisdiction in the requesting state where the violation of criminal law is alleged to have been committed. The petition may be filed regardless of whether the juvenile has left the state before or after the filing of the petition. The requisition described in article V of the compact shall be forwarded by the judge of the court in which the petition has been filed.

History.—§2, ch. 57-298.

39.27 Juvenile compact administrator.—

Pursuant to said compact, the governor is hereby authorized and empowered to designate an officer who shall be the compact administrator and who, acting jointly with like officers of other party states, shall promulgate rules and regulations to carry out more effectively the terms of the compact. Said compact administrator shall serve subject to the pleasure of the governor. The compact administrator is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to cooperate with all departments, agencies and officers of and in the government of this state and its subdivisions in facilitating the proper administration of the compact or of any supplementary agreement or agreements entered into by this state thereunder.

History.—§3, ch. 57-298.

39.28 Supplementary agreements.—The compact administrator is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into supplementary agreements with appropriate officials of other states pursuant to the compact. In the event that such supplementary agreement shall require or contemplate the use of any institution or facility of this state or require or contemplate the provision of any service by this state, said supplementary agreement shall have no force or effect until approved by the head of the department or agency under whose jurisdiction said institution or facility is operated or whose department or agency will be charged with the rendering of such service.

History.—§4, ch. 57-298.

39.29 Financial arrangements.—The compact administrator, subject to the approval of the chief state fiscal officer, may make or arrange for any payments necessary to discharge any financial obligations imposed upon this state by the compact or by any supplementary agreement entered into thereunder.

History.—§5, ch. 57-298.

39.30 Responsibilities of state departments, agencies and officers.—The courts, departments, agencies and officers of this state and its subdivisions shall enforce this compact and shall do all things appropriate to the effectuation of its purposes and intent which may be within their respective jurisdictions.

History.—§6, ch. 57-298.

39.31 Additional procedures not precluded.—In addition to any procedure provided in articles IV and VI of the compact for the return of any runaway juvenile, the particular states, the juvenile or his parents, the courts, or other legal custodian involved may agree upon and adopt any other plan or procedure legally authorized under the laws of this state and the other respective party states for the return of any such runaway juvenile.

History.—§7, ch. 57-298.

The plaintiff, or his agent, shall verify the statement of claim by oath or affirmation in the form herein provided, or its equivalent, and shall affix his signature thereto. The judge or clerk of said court shall, at the request of any individual, prepare a statement of claim and other papers required to be filed in any action.

(2) A notice to appear shall be served on the defendant, to which shall be attached a copy of the verified statement of claim, and such service shall be sufficient to give the court jurisdiction in the premises. The time for appearance, at which time a hearing on the claim shall be had, shall be not less than five nor more than fifteen days from the date of the service of said notice. The mode of service shall be by the sheriff or constable as provided by law; or by registered mail with return receipt; or by any person not a party to or otherwise interested in the suit, especially appointed by the judge for that purpose.

If the judge fails to induce the parties to settle their differences without a trial, he shall proceed with the hearing on the merits.

(2) The judge shall conduct the trial in such manner as to do substantial justice between the parties according to the rules of substantive law, and all rules and regulations relating to pleading, practice and procedure shall be liberally construed so as to administer justice.

(3) If the plaintiff fails to appear, the suit may be dismissed for want of prosecution, or defendant may proceed to a trial on the merits, or the case may be continued as the judge may direct. 44.01 Legislative intent.—It is the intent of the legislature to abolish the fee system for the compensation of county judges and the expense for the operation of their offices and to establish a comprehensive salary scale for the county judges so that the intent of Art. III, §20 of the state constitution, that the regulation of the fees of county officers should be done by general legislation and not by local or special act, will be carried out. It is also the intent of the legislature to establish a uniformity of budgeting procedure to promote more efficient and accurate auditing and handling of county finances.

History.—§1, ch. 63-365.

44.02 Salaries.—

(1) On and after October 1, 1963, each county judge shall receive for the performance of his official duties as county judge an annual salary, payable out of the general fund of the county, which shall be due and payable on the last day of the month in which it accrued; provided, that compensation for service in office for a part of a calendar month shall be paid in the proportion that the days served bear to the number of days in that month.

(2) The annual salary of each county judge is hereby fixed by the legislature to be the compensation earned by such officer or his predecessor in office and paid to such officer or such predecessor in office during the year 1962, unless otherwise provided by an act of the legislature becoming law in 1963 or subsequent thereto; provided, however, that the compensation of each county judge for the period beginning January 1, 1963, and ending September 30, 1963, shall not be less than three quarters of the compensation earned by such officer or his predecessor in office and paid to such officer or his predecessor in office during the year 1962. If the income of the office of county judge for that period is insufficient for the payment of the compensation of the county judge for the period beginning January 1, 1963, and ending September 30, 1963, as herein provided, the board of county commissioners shall pay to the county judge from the general fund of the county, an amount sufficient to provide the county judge the compensation contemplated by this section for such period.

History.—§2, ch. 63-365.

44.03 Budgets.—

(1) At the time fixed by law for preparation of the county budget, each county judge shall certify to the board of county commissioners a proposed budget of expenditures for the carrying out of the powers, duties, and operations of his office for the ensuing fiscal year of the county. The fiscal year of the county judge shall henceforth commence on October 1 and end on September 30 of each year.

(2) The county judge shall submit with the proposed budget his sworn certificate, stating that the proposed expenditures are reasonable and necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the office for the ensuing year. Each proposed budget shall show the estimated amounts of all proposed expenditures for operating and equipping the county judge's office other than construction, repair, or capital improvement of county buildings during the said fiscal year. The expenditures shall be itemized as follows:

- (a) Salary of the county judge.
- (b) Salaries of assistants and clerks.
- (c) Expenses, other than salaries.
- (d) Equipment.
- (e) Reserve for contingencies.

(3) (a) The board of county commissioners or the budget commission, if there is a budget commission within the county, may require from the county judge whatever reasonable information it may deem desirable concerning the expenditures of prior years. The said board or budget commission, as the case may be, may require the county judge to correct errors in form and mathematical and mechanical errors in his budget. No later than August 1 of each year, the said board or commission, as the case may be, may amend, modify, increase, or reduce any or all items of expenditure in the proposed budget and, as amended, modified, increased, or reduced, shall approve said budget promptly, giving written notice of their action to the county judge specifying in such notice the specific items so amended, modified, increased, or reduced; the budget shall include the salaries and expenses of the county judge, purchase, maintenance, and operation of equipment, and all other salaries, expenses, equipment and expenditures of the county judge for the ensuing year. The county judge, within ten days after receiving written notice of such action by the board or commission (either in person or in his office) may file an appeal to the board of appeals of county officers' budgets. Such appeal shall be by petition to such board of appeals, which petition shall set forth the budget proposed by the county judge and the budget as approved by the board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be, and shall contain the reasons or grounds for the appeal. Such petition shall be filed with the state comptroller and a copy of said petition shall be served upon the board or commission from whose decision appeal is taken by delivering the same to the chairman or president thereof, or to the clerk of the circuit court. The board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be, shall have five days from delivery of a copy of any such petition, as above, to file with the board of appeals a reply thereto and shall deliver a copy of such reply to the county judge.

(b) The board of appeals, within thirty days of the filing of the petition, shall consider the petition and may require a hearing thereon. The board of appeals shall by majority vote, within said thirty days:

1. Approve the action of the board or commission as to each separate item, or;

2. Approve the budget as proposed by the county judge as to each separate item, or;

3. Amend or modify said budget as to each separate item within the limits of the proposed expenditures and the expenditures as approved by the board of county commissioners or the budget commission, as the case may be.

The budget, as approved, amended, or modified by the board of appeals of county officers' budgets, shall be final.

(4) The board of county commissioners and the budget commission, if there is a budget commission within the county, shall include in the county budget the items of proposed expenditures as set forth in the budget required by this section to be submitted, after the said budget has been reviewed and approved as provided herein; the said board or commission, as the case may be, shall include the reserve for contingencies provided herein for each budget of the county judge in the reserve for contingencies in the budget of the appropriate county fund.

(5) The reserve for contingencies in the budget of a county judge shall be governed by the same provisions governing the amount and use of the reserve for contingencies appropriated in the county budget, except that the reserve for contingencies in the budget of the county judge shall be appropriated upon written request of the county judge.

(6) The items placed in the budget of the board of county commissioners pursuant to this law shall be subject to the same provisions of law as the county annual budget; provided that no amendments may be made to the appropriations for the county judge's office except as requested by the county judge.

(7) The proposed expenditures in the budget shall be submitted to the board of county commissioners or budget commission, if there is a budget commission within the county, by July 1 of each year, except that for 1963 the budget shall be submitted on or before July 15, and the said budget shall be included by the said board or commission, as the case may be, in the budget of either the general fund or the fine and forfeiture fund, or in part of each.

(8) If in the judgment of the county judge an emergency should arise by reason of which the county judge would be unable to perform his duties without the expenditure of larger amounts than those provided in the budget, he may apply to the board of county officers' budget appeals for the appropriation of additional amounts. The county judge shall at the same time deliver a copy of his application to the board of county commissioners, and to the budget commission if there is a budget commission within the county. The board of county officers' budget appeals shall hold a hearing on the application, after due notice to the county judge and to the boards, and may grant or deny an increase or increases in the appropriations for the county judge's offices. If any increase is granted, the board of county commissioners, and the budget commission, if there is a budget commission in the county, shall amend accordingly the budget of the appropriate county fund or funds. Such budget shall be brought into balance, if possible, by application of excess receipts in the said county fund or funds. If such excess receipts are not available in sufficient amount, the county fund budget or budgets shall be brought into balance by adding an item of vouchers unpaid in the appropriate amount to the receipts side of the budget, and provision for paying such vouchers shall be made in the budget of the county fund for the next fiscal year.

History.—§3, ch. 63-365.

44.04 Payment of salaries and expenses.—

(1) The county judge shall requisition and the board of county commissioners shall pay him, at the first meeting in October of each year, and each month thereafter, one twelfth of the total amount budgeted for the office; provided, that at the first meeting in October of each year, the board shall, at the request of the county judge, pay one sixth of the total appropriated, and one twelfth each month thereafter, which payments shall be not more than the total appropriation; provided further, that any part of the amount budgeted for equipment shall be paid at any time during the year upon the request of the county judge.

(2) The county judge shall deposit the county warrant or warrants in his official bank account as provided in §44.05(3) and draw his own checks thereon in payment of the salaries of himself and his clerks and employees and the expenses of his office. All salaries paid shall be supported by pay rolls, and all expenses paid shall be supported by approved bills.

(3) The county judge may set up a revolving fund for payment in cash of small items. The revolving fund shall be reimbursed from time to time by payments of the vouchers representing the cash payments.

(4) The county judge shall keep necessary budget accounts and records, and shall charge all paid bills and pay rolls to the proper budget accounts. The reserve for contingencies, or any part thereof, may be transferred to any of the budget appropriations, in the discretion of the county judge. With the approval of the board of county commissioners, or of the budget commission, if there is a budget commission in the county, the budget may be amended as provided for county budgets in §129.06(2).

(5) All expenses incurred in the fiscal year for which the budget is made shall be vouchered and charged to the budget for that year, and to carry out this purpose the books may be held open for thirty days after the end of the year.

(6) All unexpended balances at the end of each fiscal year shall be refunded to the board of county commissioners, and deposited to the county fund or funds from which payment was originally made.

History.—§4, ch. 63-365.

44.05 Fees and commissions.—

(1) No bills shall be rendered to the county for any services, nor shall any fees, commissions, or other remuneration for official services as county judge be paid by the board of county commissioners of any county to the county judge of the county except as provided by this act. All fees, commissions, and other remuneration provided by law for services shall be charged by the said county judge to other authorities and parties doing business with their offices, and shall be paid over to the county as provided in this section.

(2) The fees authorized or deposit sufficient to cover them, shall be collected in advance from the party who requests the service; provided, that services may be performed for any governmental agency or unit without advance payment, and the officer shall bill and collect the fees earned from such agency after the service is performed or when the amount due is determined.

(3) Deposits for fees shall be placed in a depository trust account. The officer who receives the deposit shall keep an account with the depositor, and shall withdraw monthly from the deposits the fees earned and shall remit them to the county fund or funds as provided by this act.

(4) Fees or commissions commingled when received with other official collections may be deposited with such other collections in the trust account or accounts and distributed to the county fund or funds at the time that the other collections with which they were received, are distributed.

(5) All fees, commissions, or other funds collected by the county judge for services rendered or performed by his office shall be remitted monthly to the county, in the manner prescribed by the state auditor.

History.—§5, ch. 63-365.

44.05 Handling of public funds.—The county judge shall keep public funds in his custody, either in his office in an amount not in excess of the burglary, theft, and robbery insurance provided, the cost of which is hereby authorized as an expense of the office, or in a depository in an amount not in excess of the security provided pursuant to chapter 36, and the comptroller's regulations. The title of the depository accounts shall include the words county judge and the name of the county, and withdrawals from the accounts shall be made by checks signed by the duly qualified and acting county judge of the county, or his designated agent.

History.—§6, ch. 63-365.

44.07 Independence of constitutional officials.—The independence of the county judges shall be preserved concerning the purchase of supplies and equipment, selection of personnel, and the hiring, firing, and setting of salaries of such personnel; provided that nothing herein contained shall restrict the establishment or operation of any civil service system or civil service board created pursuant to Art. XVI, §34 of the state constitution provided, further, that nothing contained in this act shall be construed to alter, modify or change in any manner any civil service system or board, state or local, now in existence or hereafter established.

History.—§7, ch. 63-365.

44.08 Severability clause.—If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or word of this act is for any reason held or declared to be unconstitutional, invalid, inoperative, ineffective, inapplicable, or void, such invalidity or unconstitutionality shall not be construed to affect the portions of the act not so held to be unconstitutional, void, invalid, or ineffective, or affect the application of this act to other circumstances not so held to be invalid, it being hereby declared to be the express legislative intent that any such unconstitutional, illegal, invalid, ineffective, inapplicable, or void, portion or portions of this act did not induce its passage and that without the inclusion of any such unconstitutional, illegal, invalid, ineffective, or void portions of this act, the legislature would have enacted the valid and constitutional portions thereof.

History.—§8, ch. 63-365.

44.09 Exemptions.—The provisions of this *chapter shall not apply to the county judge of any county of the state having a constitutional amendment requiring the legislature to set, by local or special act, the salaries of all county officers; nor shall the provisions of this act apply to any county having a population of three hundred fifty thousand or more according to the latest official decennial census. The court may impose such terms for the extension of time as justice requires.

(3) When the initial pleading does not show that the action is founded on a duly recorded instrument, or on a mechanic's lien, the court may control and discharge the notice of lis pendens as the court may grant and dissolve injunctions.

SUMMARY PROCEDURE

51.011 Summary procedure.

51.011 Summary procedure.—The procedure in this section applies only to those actions specified by statute or rule. Rules of procedure apply to this section except when this section or the statute or rule prescribing this section provides a different procedure. If there is a difference between the time period prescribed in a rule and in this section, this section governs.

(1) PLEADINGS.—Plaintiff's initial pleading shall contain the matters required by the statute or rule prescribing this section or if none are so required, shall state a cause of action. All defenses of law or fact shall be contained in defendant's answer which shall be served within five days after service of process. If the answer incorporates a counterclaim, plaintiff shall include all defenses of law or fact in his answer to the counterclaim and shall serve it within five days after service of the counterclaim. No other pleadings are permitted. All defensive motions, including motions to quash, shall be heard by the court prior to trial.

(2) DISCOVERY.—Depositions on oral examination may be taken by any party at any time. Other discovery and admissions may be had only on order of court setting the time for compliance. No discovery postpones the time for trial except for good cause shown or by stipulation of the parties.

(3) JURY.—If a jury trial is authorized by law, any party may demand it in any pleading or by a separate paper served not later than five days after the action comes to issue. When a jury is in attendance at the close of pleading or the time of demand for jury trial, the action may be tried immediately; otherwise, the court shall order a special venire to be summoned immediately. If a special venire be summoned, the party demanding the jury shall deposit sufficient money with the clerk to pay the jury fees which shall be taxed as costs if he prevails.

(4) NEW TRIAL.—Motion for new trial shall be filed and served within five days after verdict, if a jury trial was had, or after entry of judgment, if trial was by the court. A reserved motion for directed verdict shall be renewed within the period for moving for a new trial.

The additional peremptory challenges thereby accruing to multiple parties on the opposing side shall be divided equally among them. Any additional peremptory challenges not capable of equal division shall be exercised separately or jointly as determined by the court.

A party objecting to the juror may introduce any other competent evidence to support the objection. If it appears that the juror does not stand indifferent to the action or any of the foregoing grounds of objection exist, or that he is otherwise incompetent, another shall be called in his place.

(2) If any person selected for jury duty from bystanders or the body of the county, and not from a jury list lawfully selected, has served as a juror in the court in which he is called at any other time within one year, this is a ground of challenge for cause.

Alternate jurors shall be drawn in the same manner, have the same qualifications, be subject to the same examination, take the same oath and have the same functions, powers, facilities and privileges as principal jurors. An alternate juror who does not replace a principal juror shall be discharged when the jury retires to consider its verdict.

county of the defendant's residence to be examined concerning his property.

59.13 Supersedeas or stay.—

(1) MOTION AND ORDER FOR.—Every appeal shall operate as a stay or supersedeas under the following conditions. The appellant shall, at any time prior to filing his record on appeal, apply to the trial court for a good and sufficient bond payable to the adverse party, the amount and conditions of which shall be fixed by the trial court. If the appeal is from a money judgment or decree, the stay or supersedeas shall be as of right on posting the bond.

(2) "GOOD AND SUFFICIENT BOND" DEFINED.—A "good and sufficient bond" means a bond with a principal and two good and sufficient personal sureties, or one surety if a surety company authorized to do business in the state, when approved by the clerk or judge of the trial court, or by an officer authorized by the order granting the stay or supersedeas.

(3) FOR RECOVERY OF MONEY NOT SECURED.—When the judgment, order or decree requires or provides unconditionally for the payment or recovery of money, the bond shall be payable to the adverse party, conditioned to satisfy the judgment or decree or any modification not increasing the amount thereof, in full including costs, interest (if chargeable), and damages for delay, in event the appeal be dismissed or the judgment, order or decree is affirmed.

(4) FOR RECOVERY OF MONEY OTHERWISE SECURED.—When the judgment, order or decree is for the recovery of money otherwise secured, the bond shall be conditioned to pay costs on appeal, interest (if legally chargeable), and damages for delay, together with such other and further conditions as shall be fixed by the court.

(5) OTHER THAN FOR MONEY.—If the judgment or decree is, in whole or in part, other than a money judgment, the amount and condition of the bond shall be determined by the trial court, and the elements to be considered in fixing the amount and conditions of such bonds shall be the costs of the action, costs of the appeal, interest (if chargeable), damages for delay, use, detention, and depreciation of any property involved.

(6) REVIEW OF ORDER, WHEN ARBITRARY OR UNREASONABLE.—In any event, if the bond required is deemed to be arbitrary or unreasonable or such as is for any reason not proper, it may be reviewed, modified or discharged by the appellate court on motion; provided, ample notice thereof be given to the adverse party.

(7) CERTIORARI.—When it shall be made to appear to the trial court that a petition for certiorari has been or is about to be applied for in the appellate court, such trial court may grant a supersedeas or stay upon petitioner giving a good and sufficient bond, conditioned that such petition shall be duly presented to the appellate court within twenty days and to pay all costs, damages and expenses occasioned by reason of the stay of proceedings, together with such other and further conditions as may be fixed by the trial court, in event the order or judgment of which a review is sought is not quashed, modified or reversed.

(8) JUDGMENT AGAINST SURETY.—By entering into a supersedeas or stay order bond, given pursuant to this or any other statute, or order of court, the surety submits himself to the jurisdiction of the trial court. After motion and citation his liability may be enforced without the necessity of an independent action. Provided, however, that this provision shall not be applicable to state boards, commissions and other bodies from which an appeal may be taken.

(9) APPELLATE COURT MAY GRANT.—Nothing herein shall be construed as denying the appellate court jurisdiction to grant supersedeas in like manner as the trial court.

divisions, or any officer, board, commission, or other public body of the state or any of its political subdivisions, in a purely official capacity, takes an appeal, the filing of the notice of appeal shall perfect the same and stay the execution or performance of the judgment, decree, or order appealed from, and no supersedeas bond need be given unless expressly required by the appellate court.

(2) APPELLATE COURT MAY REQUIRE BOND.—The appellate court may, on motion for good cause shown, require a supersedeas bond or other security, in such amount, form and manner as it may prescribe as a condition for the further prosecution of the appeal.

(3) EXECUTION OF BOND WHEN REQUIRED.—When a supersedeas bond is required by the appellate court as aforesaid, or where an appeal, or other proceeding, is taken in any court wherein the above exemption is not applicable, and where there is no court rule or otherwise exempting such parties from giving supersedeas, cost or other required bond, such parties are authorized to make and execute such required bond, with a corporate surety thereon duly licensed to do business in this state. Premium or other cost for the said bond may be paid from the general necessary and regular appropriation of the party taking the appeal, if the state or any of its officers, boards, commissioners or other agencies, and from the county general fund, school general fund, or otherwise as the case may be, if a political subdivision of the state or any of their officers, boards, commissions or other agencies. The clerk, or judge if there be no clerk, shall not be required to verify, nor shall he make any charge for, any such copy when physically incorporated in the transcript. The trial court shall, at all times, have power to make the said report speak the truth.

by law or rule of court for the filing thereof.

(2) If the appellant fails to procure and file the transcript of record as aforesaid, the appellate court shall, unless good cause be shown, dismiss the appeal upon the production, by the adverse party, of a certificate by the clerk of the trial court, or the judge if there be no clerk, showing that an appeal has been taken and the date when taken.

(3) Upon receipt of the mandate of the appellate court, or upon receipt of a certified copy of the order dismissing the appeal and the expiration of the time for petitioning the appellate court for a rehearing without the filing of such a petition, or the denial of such petition if filed, the trial court shall proceed to enforce the judgment, order, or decree appealed from, and issue execution for costs and damages which may have been adjudged by the appellate court.

(4) If the appeal be to an appellate court other than the supreme court, from a trial court in the same county wherein the appellate court is located, no transcript of the proceedings and record in the trial court shall be required, but may be used at the option of the appellant, but in lieu thereof the clerk of the trial court, or the judge if there be no clerk, shall, upon written request of the appellant or of the appellee, deliver the complete original file, or such portions thereof as may be designated in writing by the parties, to the clerk of the appellate court, taking a receipt for the same, which record may be used for said appeal. It shall be the duty of the appellate court, in considering such appeal, to examine such exhibit, so transmitted, in determining the correctness of the trial court in receiving or excluding the same from evidence; in determining the sufficiency or insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict; in determining the correctness of the trial court in granting or refusing a new trial; or in affirming or reversing the judgment of the lower court, just as fully as though the same were incorporated in a transcript of record.

(2) In every case where it shall appear to the appellate court that a reporter's authenticated transcript is actually incorporated into the transcript of the record, said court shall have authority to recognize and consider such reporter's transcript in the furtherance of justice, notwithstanding it may appear that such transcript was not properly filed in the lower court and notwithstanding any other alleged or apparent defect in the procedure by which such transcript was made up and filed; provided, that said appellate court is satisfied that such transcript fairly and truly reflects the matters in pais transpiring in the lower court in such case, notwithstanding the manner

(2) The court may allow a temporary injunction without bond on proper proof being made. If it appears by evidence or affidavit that a temporary injunction should issue, the court, pending the determination on final hearing may enjoin:

- (a) The maintaining of a nuisance;
- (b) The operating and maintaining of the place or premises where the nuisance is maintained;
- (c) The owner or agent of the building or ground upon which the nuisance exists;
- (d) The conduct, operation or maintenance of any business or activity operated or maintained in the building or on the premises in connection with or incident to the maintenance of the nuisance.

Otherwise the action shall continue and the state attorney or county solicitor notified to proceed with it. If the action is brought by a citizen and the court finds that there was no reasonable ground for the action, the costs shall be taxed against the citizen.

(4) On trial if the existence of a nuisance is shown, the court shall issue a permanent injunction and order the costs to be paid by the persons establishing or maintaining the nuisance and shall adjudge that the costs are a lien on all personal property found in the place of the nuisance and on the failure of the property to bring enough to pay the costs, then on the real estate occupied by the nuisance. No lien shall attach to the real estate of any other than said persons unless five days' written notice has been given to the owner or his agent who fails to begin to abate the nuisance within said five days.

(1) The name, if known, sex, color, and age, if known, or if unknown, the approximate age, and the place of birth, if known, of the child sought to be adopted; provided, however, that the real name and the place of birth of the child sought to be adopted need not be set forth if such child has previously been permanently committed to a licensed child-placing agency or the state department of public welfare;

(2) The new name to be given to such child if change of name is desired;

(3) The name, age and place of residence of the adopting parent or parents, and if married, the place and date of their marriage;

(4) The name and address of the agency to which such child has been permanently committed, and whether or not the agency is a licensed child-placing agency or the state department of public welfare as defined in this law;

(5) The reasons why the petitioner or petitioners desire to adopt said child. Upon the filing of the petition, the clerk of the court wherein the same is filed shall forthwith mail a copy thereof to the state welfare board, and to the licensed child-placing agency or the state department of public welfare, if such there be, named in the petition. The clerk shall make a certificate as to such mailing and such certificate shall be conclusive proof thereof.

History.—§6, ch. 21759, 1943; §7, ch. 63-449; §18, ch. 67-254.

63.081 Consent.—Service of process shall be unnecessary when a written consent is filed with the petition or thereafter executed in the presence of two witnesses and acknowledged before an officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments by:

(1) The living parent or parents of a child born in wedlock, or the living mother of a child born out of wedlock, or if no parent is living, the legal guardian, if any, but if the child has previously been permanently committed to a licensed child-placing agency or the state department of public welfare, the consent of the parent or parents or legal guardian is not required and the consent may be given by the licensed child-placing agency or the state department of public welfare to which the child has been so committed and this consent is sufficient. If the child has been permanently committed for adoption by a court having jurisdiction of the cause and parties to an agency of or in a state other than Florida, the agency being duly licensed or otherwise legally qualified in the state to place children for adoption, and documentary evidence of the license or legal qualifications and permanent commitment for adoption satisfactory to the court is filed, the consent of the parent or parents or legal guardian is not required and the consent to the adoption may be given by the out-of-state agency.

(2) If any adoption judgment or decree has heretofore been entered based on the consent of the state department of public welfare, or a child-placing agency duly licensed or otherwise legally qualified by or in another state to whom the child has been permanently committed for adoption by a court having jurisdiction of the action and the parties, the adoption is hereby validated and confirmed unless proceedings are instituted in the court entering the judgment or decree to vacate it within six months from the effective date of this law.

63.091 Social investigation and recommendations.—Upon or prior to the filing of a petition for the adoption of any minor child, a study shall be made of all pertinent details relating to such child for the purpose of ascertaining whether he is a proper subject for adoption, and the petitioner or petitioners, to determine whether they are suitable persons to adopt such child; provided, however, said investigation and recommendations shall not be required, unless requested by the court, in cases where the petitioner is married to and not separated from one of the natural parents of the child sought to be adopted and the petition so states. If the child sought to be adopted has previously been permanently committed to a licensed child-placing agency, the social study shall be made by such agency, otherwise by the state welfare board. Written recommendations as to the desirability of the adoption shall be filed by such agency making such study or by the state welfare board, as the case may be. Thereupon such agency or the state welfare board, as the case may be, shall be deemed a party to the cause. In all cases in which the state welfare board is required to make a study and file recommendations as to the desirability of the adoption as herein provided the board shall, when submitting its recommendations, submit to the court a written statement of the facts found in its social investigation and on which its recommendations are based.

Hearings on adoptions of children related to petitioners by blood or marriage may be held as soon as the recommendations of the state welfare board are filed. Hearings on child-placing agency adoptions may be held on receipt of the child-placing agency's recommendations if the child has lived in the home ninety days. Hearings on adoptions when a natural parent has filed formal opposition to the adoption and hearings on adoptions where the state welfare board is recommending dismissal may be held at any time after receipt of the state welfare board's recommendation. The state welfare board and the licensed child-placing agency named in the petition, if any, shall be given notice of the hearing. The petitioners and the child to be adopted, if twelve years of age or over, shall attend the hearing in person, but a younger child shall not be required to attend unless the court so orders. Provided further, the court may upon showing of impracticability of requiring such attendance excuse from attendance on the hearing either or both petitioners and any such child twelve years of age or over. 63.151 Effect of adoption.—By any judgment or decree of adoption the child shall be the child and legal heir of the adopting parent or parents, entitled to all rights and privileges, and subject to all obligations, of a child born to such parent or parents in lawful wedlock. After the adoption the natural parents, if living, are relieved of all legal duties and obligations due from them to the child and are divested of all rights with respect to the child, but when the adopting parent is married to one of the natural parents of the child or thereafter intermarries with one of the natural parents, the relation of the child toward the natural parents is not altered by the adoption. When an adopted child has been subsequently adopted by some third party or readopted by his natural parents or one of them, the adopted child shall not inherit from an adopted parent when he has been subsequently adopted by another or by his natural parents or one of them in the absence of some evidence in writing that the adopting parent considered the child his child for the purposes of inheritance notwithstanding the subsequent adoption. Nothing in this law shall prevent a legally adopted child from inheriting from the natural parents under the laws of this state or any state.

(2) POWERS, DUTIES, COMPENSATION AND REPORT OF COMMISSIONERS.—The commissioners shall be sworn to execute the trust imposed in them faithfully and impartially before entering on their duties; have power to employ a surveyor, if necessary, for the purpose of making partition; be allowed such sum as is reasonable for their services; to make partition of the lands in question according to the court's order and report it in writing to the court without delay.

(3) EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT, AND FINAL JUDGMENT.—Any party may file objections to the report of the commissioners within ten days after it is served. If no objections are filed or if the court is satisfied on hearing any such objections that they are not well founded, the report shall be confirmed, and a final judgment entered vesting in the parties the title to the parcels of the lands allotted to them respectively, and giving each of them the possession of and quieting title to their respective shares as against the other parties to the action or those claiming through or under them.

(4) APPOINTMENT OF MASTER WHERE PROPERTY NOT SUBJECT TO PARTITION.—On an uncontested allegation in a pleading that the property sought to be partitioned is indivisible and is not subject to partition without prejudice to the owners of it or if a judgment of partition is entered and the court is satisfied that the allegation is correct, on motion of any party and notice to the others the court may appoint a special master or the clerk to make sale of the property either at private sale or as provided by §64.071.

Note.—Formerly §66.06.

64.071 Partition of property; sale where nondivisible.—

(1) ORDER OF SALE.—If the commissioners report that the lands of which partition is directed are so situated that partition cannot be made without prejudice to the owners and if the court is satisfied that such report is correct, the court may order the land to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder by the commissioners or the clerk and the money arising from such sale paid into the court to be divided among the parties in proportion to their interest.

(2) CONDITIONS OF SALE.—For good cause the court may order the sale made on reasonable credit for part or all of the purchase money, but at least one third of the purchase money shall be paid down unless all parties consent to credit otherwise. The purchase money not paid down shall be secured by a mortgage on the land and such other security as the court directs.

(3) CONFIRMATION OF SALE AND CONVEYANCE.—The sale shall be reported to the court, unless sold by the clerk under §45.031, and the money arising therefrom paid into court and the sale approved by the court and a conveyance ordered before any conveyance pursuant to the sale is made.

Such judgment is binding on all his goods and chattels, lands or tenements. In case of sale the court may order the costs and fees to be paid or retained out of the moneys arising from the sale and due to the parties who ought to pay the same. All taxes, state, county and municipal, due thereon at the time of the sale, shall be paid out of the purchase money.

CHAPTER 65

QUIETING TITLE

65.011 Real estate; certain jurisdiction over.
 65.021 Real estate; removing clouds.
 65.031 Real estate; removing clouds; plaintiffs.
 65.041 Real estate; removing clouds; defendants.

65.011 Real estate; certain jurisdiction over.—Chancery courts have jurisdiction of actions by any person or corporation claiming to own any land or part thereof, or by two or more claiming to own the same land or part thereof under a common title against more than one person or corporation occupying or claiming title to the land or part thereof adversely to plaintiff, whether defendants claim or hold under a common title or not; and shall determine the title of plaintiff as against defendants and enter judgment quieting the title of, and awarding possession to, the plaintiff entitled thereto and may enter injunctions, temporary or perpetual, appoint receivers, and enter such orders about costs as are necessary to protect the rights of the parties.

History.—§1, ch. 3884, 1889; RS 1500; GS 1949; RGS 3212; CGL 5004; §20, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §66.10.

65.021 Real estate; removing clouds.—Chancery courts have jurisdiction of actions brought by any person or corporation, whether in actual possession or not, claiming legal or equitable title to land against any person or corporation not in actual possession, who has, appears to have or claims an adverse legal or equitable estate, interest, or claim therein to determine such estate, interest, or claim and quiet or remove clouds from the title to the land. It is no bar to relief that the title has not been litigated at law or that there is only one litigant to each side of the controversy or that the adverse claim, estate, or interest is void upon its face, or though not void on its face, requires extrinsic evidence to establish its validity.

History.—§1, ch. 4739, 1899; GS 1950; RGS 3213; §1, ch. 10223, 1925; CGL 5005; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §20, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §66.11.

65.031 Real estate; removing clouds; plaintiffs.—An action in chancery for quieting title to, or clearing a cloud from, land may be maintained in the name of the owner or of any prior owner who warranted the title. All lands, the title to which is subject to a common defect, may be embraced in one action irrespective of the number of existing legal or equitable owners.

History.—§1, ch. 10221, 1925; CGL 5006; §20, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §66.12.

65.041 Real estate; removing clouds; defendants.—No person not a party to the action is bound by any judgment rendered adverse to his interest, but any judgment favorable to the person inures to his benefit to the extent of his legal or equitable title.

History.—§2, ch. 10221, 1925; CGL 5007; §20, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §66.13.

65.051 Real estate; removing clouds; joinder.
 65.061 Quieting title; additional remedy.
 65.071 Quieting title; deeds without joinder of wife where separated for thirty years.
 65.081 Tax titles; quieting title.

65.051 Real estate; removing clouds; joinder.—Two or more persons who are interested in removing a cloud from or quieting title to land as against the same clouds or adverse claims may join as plaintiffs in a single action to remove such clouds or quiet the title, although their interests relate to separate lands or parts thereof.

History.—§1, ch. 10222, 1925; CGL 5008; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §20, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §66.14.

65.061 Quieting title; additional remedy.—
 (1) JURISDICTION.—Chancery courts have jurisdiction of actions by any person or corporation claiming legal or equitable title to any land, or part thereof, or when any two or more persons claim to own the same land, or any part thereof under a common title against all persons or corporations claiming title to or occupying the land adversely to plaintiff, whether defendants claim or hold under a common title or not, and shall determine the title of plaintiff and may enter judgment quieting the title and awarding possession to the party entitled thereto, but if any defendant is in actual possession of any part of the land, a trial by jury may be demanded by any party whereupon the court shall order an issue in ejectment as to such lands to be made and tried by a jury. Provision for trial by jury does not affect the action on any lands that are not claimed to be in the actual possession of any defendant. The court may enter final judgment without awaiting the determination of the ejectment action.

(2) GROUND.—When a person or corporation, not the rightful owner of land, has any conveyance or other evidence of title thereto, or asserts any claim, or pretends to have any right or title thereto which may cast a cloud, on the title of the real owner or when any person or corporation is the true and equitable owner of land, the record title to which is not in the person or corporation because of the defective execution of any deed or mortgage because of the omission of a seal thereon, the lack of witnesses, or any defect or omission in the wording of the acknowledgment of a party or parties thereto, when the person or corporation claims title thereto by the defective instrument and the defective instrument was apparently made and delivered by the grantor to convey or mortgage the real estate and was recorded in the county where the land lies, or when possession of the land has been held by any person or corporation adverse to the record owner thereof or his heirs and assigns until such adverse possession has ripened into a good title under the statutes of this state, such person or corporation may file complaint in any county in which any part of the land is situated to have the conveyance or other evidence of claim or title canceled and the cloud removed from the title, and to have his title quieted, whether such real owner is in possession or not, or is threatened to be disturbed in his possession or not, and whether defendant is a resident of this state or not, and whether the title has been litigated at law or not, and whether the adverse claim or title or interest is void on its face or not, or if not void on its face that it may require extrinsic evidence to establish its validity.

(3) DERAIGNMENT OF TITLE.—The plaintiff shall deraign his title from the original source or for a period of at least seven years before filing the complaint unless the court otherwise directs, setting forth the book and page of the records where any instrument affecting the title is recorded, if it is recorded, unless plaintiff claims from a common source with defendant.

(4) JUDGMENT.—If it appears that plaintiff has legal title to the land or is the equitable owner thereof based on one or more of the grounds mentioned in subsection (2), or if a default is entered against defendant (in which case no evidence need be taken), the court shall enter judgment removing the alleged cloud from the title to the land and forever quieting the title in plaintiff and those claiming under him since the commencement of the action and adjudging plaintiff to have a good fee simple title to said land or the interest thereby cleared of cloud.

(5) RECORDING FINAL JUDGMENTS.—All final judgments may be recorded in the county or counties in which the land is situated and operate to vest title in like manner as though a conveyance were executed by a special master or commissioner.

(6) OPERATION.—This section is cumulative to other existing remedies.

History.—§§1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 9, ch. 11383, 1925; CGL 5010, 5011, 5014, 5015, 5017, 5018; §1, ch. 24293, 1947; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §20, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §§66.16, 66.17, 66.20, 66.21, 66.23, 66.24.

65.071 Quieting title; deeds without joinder of wife where separated for thirty years.—An action in chancery may be brought to quiet title to land to preclude any wife from claiming dower or any heirs from claiming any interest to land when the following facts exist:

(1) When any husband and wife have not cohabited as husband and wife for thirty years or more and during this time the husband has conveyed land as a single man and the land has come into the hands of purchasers for a valuable consideration without notice that the husband was married at the time he conveyed the land, and the purchasers have relied on the acknowledgment to deeds by the husband that he was a single man, and it afterwards became known that he was a married man at the time he deeded the land and has never been divorced and refuses to voluntarily get a divorce to clear the title to preclude his wife from claiming any inchoate dower therein and his heirs from claiming any interest therein and when the wife has never lived in the county where the land is located with the husband as his wife and has never asserted any inchoate right to dower in the land, the inchoate right to dower is divested and is a cloud on the title to the land and the purchaser of the land has the right to remove the cloud and to prevent the wife or heirs from claiming any dower or other interest from such purchasers and their successors in title.

(2) When these facts are proven, the court shall adjudge that the wife and heirs of the husband are forever barred and perpetually enjoined from claiming any interest in the land arising out of dower or otherwise, and that the wife did not join in the execution of the deeds by which the husband deeded the land as a single man under the facts above stated is not effective to reserve an inchoate right of dower in the land held by such purchasers.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 19116, 1939; CGL 5011(1), (2); §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §20, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §66.25.

65.081 Tax titles; quieting title.—

(1) PARTIES.—Any grantee under any tax deed issued by the state, or any municipality or other political subdivision thereof, or any purchaser from the state, or any municipality or other political subdivision thereof, of any land the title to which has been acquired by this state or such municipality or political subdivision through any proceeding or foreclosure for the nonpayment of taxes or special assessments, or the successor in title to the grantee or purchaser, may maintain an action in chancery to quiet title to the land included in the tax deed, or so purchased against the holder of the record title to the land, and against any other person or corporation claiming any interest in the land or any lien or encumbrance thereon, before issuance of the tax deed or before the loss of title to the land in the tax proceeding or foreclosure.

(2) DERAIGNING TITLE.—Actions may be maintained hereunder whether or not plaintiff is in possession of the land involved but when defendant is in actual possession of the land a jury trial may be had as provided in other actions to quiet title. When the action is based on a tax deed, the complaint need not deraign title beyond the issuance of the tax deed. When the action is based on a conveyance by this state, or any municipality or other political subdivision thereof, of land the title to which it has acquired through a foreclosure or other proceeding for the nonpayment of taxes, the complaint need not deraign title beyond the deed or other instrument or act vesting title in the state or municipality or other political subdivision of the state.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 21822, 1943; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §20, ch. 67-254.

CHAPTER 66

EJECTMENT

- 66.011 Common law ejectment abolished.
 66.021 Procedure.
 66.031 Verdict and judgment.
 66.041 Betterment, petition.
 66.051 Betterment, answer.

66.011 Common law ejectment abolished.—In ejectment it is not necessary to have any fictitious parties. Plaintiff may bring action directly against the party in possession or claiming adversely.

History.—§1, ch. 999, 1859; RS 1511; GS 1966; RGS 3234; CGL 5040; §21, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §70.01.

66.021 Procedure.—

(1) LANDLORD NOT A DEFENDANT.—When it appears before trial that a defendant in ejectment is in possession as a tenant and that his landlord is not a party, the landlord shall be made a party before further proceeding unless otherwise ordered by the court.

(2) DEFENSE MAY BE LIMITED.—A defendant in an action of ejectment may limit his defense to a part of the property mentioned in the complaint, describing such part with reasonable certainty.

(3) WRIT OF POSSESSION; EXECUTION TO BE JOINT OR SEVERAL.—When plaintiff recovers in ejectment, he may have one writ for possession, damages and costs or, if he elects, have separate writs for possession and damages.

(4) CHAIN OF TITLE.—Plaintiff with his complaint and defendant with his answer shall serve a statement setting forth chronologically the chain of title on which he will rely at trial. If any part of the chain of title is recorded, the statement shall set forth the names of the grantors and the grantees and the book and page of the record thereof; if an unrecorded instrument is relied on, a copy shall be attached. The court may require the original to be submitted to the opposite party for inspection. If the party relies on a claim or right without color of title, the statement shall specify how and when the claim originated and the facts on which the claim is based. If defendant and plaintiff claim under a common source, the statement need not deraign title before the common source.

(5) TESTING SUFFICIENCY.—If either party wants to test the legal sufficiency of any instrument or court proceeding in the chain of title of the opposite party, he shall do so before trial by motion setting up his objections with a copy of the instrument or court proceedings attached. The motion shall be disposed of before trial. If either party determines that he will be unable to maintain his claim by reason of the order, he may so state in the record and final judgment shall be entered for the opposite party.

History.—§21, ch. 67-254.

- 66.061 Betterment, trial and verdict.
 66.071 Betterment, judgment for plaintiff.
 66.081 Betterment, judgment for defendant.

 66.101 Betterment, payment by defendant.

66.031 Verdict and judgment.—

(1) VERDICT.—A verdict for plaintiff shall state the quantity of the estate of plaintiff, and describe the land by metes and bounds, lot number or other certain description.

(2) JUDGMENT.—The judgment awarding possession shall state the quantity of the estate and give a description of the land recovered in like manner.

History.—§§1, 2, ch. 3244, 1881; RS 1515; GS 1970; RGS 3238; CGL 5046; §21, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §70.05.

66.041 Betterment, petition.—If a judgment of eviction is rendered against defendant, within sixty days thereafter, or if he has appealed, within twenty days after filing the mandate affirming the judgment, he may file in the court in which the judgment was rendered a petition setting forth that:

(1) Defendant had been in possession and that he or those under whom he validly derived had permanently improved the value of the property in controversy before commencement of the action in which judgment was rendered.

(2) Defendant or those under whom he validly derives held the property at the time of such improvement under an apparently good legal or equitable title derived from the English, Spanish or United States governments or this state; or under a legal or equitable title plain and connected on the records of a public office or public offices; or under purchase at a regular sale made by an executor, administrator, guardian or other person by order of court; and

(3) When defendant made the improvements or purchased the property improved, he believed the title which he held or purchased to the land thus improved to be a good and valid title. The petition shall demand that the value of the improvements be assessed and compensation awarded to him therefor.

History.—RS 1516; GS 1971; RGS 3239; CGL 5047; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §21, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §70.07.

66.061 Betterment, trial and verdict.—If an answer is filed, trial shall be on the issues made. If no answer is filed, trial shall be ex parte, but defendant is required to prove every allegation of the petition. If the jury (or if a jury is waived, the court) finds in favor or defendant, it shall assess:

- (1) The value of the land at the time of the assessment, irrespective of the improvements put upon the land by defendant or those under whom he derives, and if any, the injury done to the land by defendant or those under whom he derives.

(2) The value of the permanent improvements at the time of the assessment.

(3) The injury, if any, done to the land by defendant or those under whom he derives.

(4) The value of the use of the land by defendant between the time of the judgment in ejectment and the time of the assessment or if defendant has been evicted from or has surrendered the premises, from the time of the judgment to the time of the surrender or eviction. The findings shall be specified separately on each of these matters.

Note.—Formerly §70.08.

66.071 Betterment, judgment for plaintiff.—On rendition of the verdict the clerk shall ascertain whether the balance of the last three assessments (that is, of the value of the improvements, the extent of the injury and the value of the use of land), is in favor of plaintiff or defendant and ascertain the amount of the balance; if the verdict is in favor of plaintiff, judgment shall be rendered against defendant for costs, whether the balance of the assessments is in favor of plaintiff or defendant; but if the balance of the assessments is in favor of plaintiff, he shall have a judgment for costs in addition to the judgment for the balance.

History.—RS 1519; GS 1974; RGS 3242; CGL 5050; §21, ch. 67-254.
Note.—Formerly §70.09.

66.081 Betterment, judgment for defendant.—If the verdict is in favor of defendant and the balance of assessments is also in his favor, a judgment for costs shall be entered against plaintiff, and a further judgment that unless plaintiff pays or secures as hereinafter provided the amount of the balance of assessments against him within twenty days, defendant may pay or secure to plaintiff the value of the land as assessed.

History.—RS 1520; GS 1975; RGS 3243; CGL 5051; §21, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §70.10.

66.091 Betterment, payment by plaintiff.—The plaintiff may pay the balance in cash or may give defendant a bond with surety to be approved by the clerk, conditioned to pay said balance in two equal annual installments, with interest at six per cent per annum to defendant. If plaintiff shall pay the sum within twenty days, or if the payment of the bond is received, satisfaction of the judgment shall be entered and all rights conferred on defendant by the judgment terminate.

History.—RS 1521; GS 1976; RGS 3244; CGL 5052; §21, ch. 67-254.

On the payment of the sum to plaintiff at any of the times hereinbefore mentioned, title to the land shall vest in defendant and plaintiff or those holding under him shall give defendant a deed to the land, tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances, and if defendant has been evicted from or has surrendered the property, it shall be restored to him by order of court on motion.

History.—RS 1522; GS 1977; RGS 3245; CGL 5053; §21, ch. 67-254.

(1) WHEN TO ISSUE.—No writ of ne exeat shall be granted until a verified complaint is filed demanding the writ. It may issue in any case when chancery has concurrent jurisdiction with common law and the issuance is just.

(2) JUDGE TO FIX PENALTY OF BOND.—In granting the writ the court shall fix the penalty and conditions of the bond with surety to be approved by the clerk to be required of plaintiff in favor of defendant. The writ shall not issue until the bond is given.

(3) ABSENCE FROM STATE UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS PERMITTED.—An absence of the defendant from the state from which he returns before a personal appearance is necessary or before it is necessary to perform any order of the court is not a breach of the condition of the bond.

(4) SURRENDER OF DEFENDANT BY SURETIES.—The surety of defendant has the right personally or by attorney at any time before the bond is forfeited to take the body of the principal and surrender him in open court or deliver him to the executive officer of the court, who shall detain the principal as in cases of the surrender of the principal by special bail. At the time of delivery to the officer, the surety shall take a receipt for the body and file it with the clerk. If done before the bond is forfeited, the surrender or delivery discharges the surety from his undertaking.

found to be served with process, the court may restrain the defendant in this state from paying or conveying or secreting the debts owing by him to, or the effects in his hands of, the absentee or restrain the absentee from conveying or secreting or removing the property in litigation, or may sequester the property which may be necessary to secure plaintiff if he prevails, and may order such debts to be paid and effects to be delivered to plaintiff on his giving bond with surety for the return thereof.

(2) The court shall require the plaintiff to give bond with surety to be approved by the clerk, to abide the future orders made for restoring the estate or effects to the absent defendant on his appearance in the action. If the plaintiff does not furnish the bond, the effects shall remain under the direction of the court or in the hands of a receiver or otherwise for so long a time and shall be disposed of in such manner as the court deems fit.

The assignment or endorsement of any instrument vests the assignee or endorsee with the same rights, powers and capacities as were possessed by the assignor or endorser. (1) SELECTION.—In any action to foreclose the lien of any mortgage or deed of trust given to secure any issue of bonds or other obligations and encumbering real or personal property or both when the owners of the bonds or beneficiaries of the trust exceed ten in number on motion of a party on its own initiative the court may appoint three persons (two of whom shall constitute a quorum for all purposes) as a committee for the protection of the holders of bonds or units or certificates of beneficial interest. The committee is vested with such powers and authority and shall discharge such duties in connection with the litigation and its subject matter as is necessary and proper in the court's discretion to protect the interest of the holders of the bonds and beneficiaries of the trust involved in or affected by the litigation. During the pendency of such litigation, the court may prescribe, modify, abrogate or nullify the powers and authority of the committee.

(2) QUALIFICATIONS.—No person is eligible for appointment to, nor qualified to act as, a member of the committee who is interested in the outcome of the action or in the subject matter thereof, or who is an officer, director or stockholder of any party to the actions, or who is related by blood or marriage to, or directly or indirectly associated with or employed by:

69.031 Designated financial institutions for assets in hands of guardians, curators, administrators, trustees, receivers, etc.—

(1) When it is expedient in the judgment of any court having jurisdiction of any estate in process of administration by any guardian, curator, executor, administrator, trustee, receiver, or other officer, because the size of the bond required of the officer is burdensome or for other cause, the court may order part or all of the personal assets of the estate placed with a bank, trust company or savings and loan association (which savings and loan association is a member of the federal savings and loan insurance corporation and doing business in this state) designated by the court, consideration being given to any bank, trust company or savings and loan association proposed by the officer. When the assets are placed with the designated financial institution, it shall file a receipt therefor in the name of the estate and give the officer a copy. Such receipt shall acknowledge the assets received by the financial institution. All interest, dividends, principal and other debts collected by the financial institution on account thereof shall be held by the financial institution in safekeeping, subject to the instructions of the officer authorized by order of the court directed to the financial institution.

(2) Accountings shall be made to the officer at reasonably frequent intervals. After the receipt for the original assets has been filed by the financial institution, the court shall waive the bond given or to be given or reduce it so that it shall apply only to the estate remaining in the hands of the officer, whichever the court deems proper.

(3) When the court has ordered any assets of an estate to be placed with a designated financial institution, any person or corporation having possession or control of any of the assets, or owing interest, dividends, principal or other debts on account thereof, shall pay and deliver such assets, interest, dividends, principal and other debts to the financial institution on its demand whether the officer has duly qualified or not, and the receipt of the financial institution relieves the person or corporation from further responsibility therefor.

(4) Any bank, trust company or savings and loan association which is designated under this section, may accept or reject the designation in any instance, and shall file its acceptance or rejection with the court making the designation within fifteen days after actual knowledge of the designation comes to the attention of the financial institution, and if the financial institution accepts, it shall be allowed a reasonable amount for its services and expenses which the court may allow as a charge against the assets placed with the financial institution.

(2) The complaint shall set forth with particularity the nature of the interest or lien of the state.

(3) A judicial sale in such action shall have the same effect respecting the discharge of the property from liens and encumbrances held by the state as is provided about such matters by the law of this state. A sale to satisfy a lien inferior to one of the state shall be made subject to and without disturbing the lien of the state, unless the state consents that the property may be sold free of its liens and the proceeds divided as the parties may be entitled.

 71.021 Reestablishment of marks and brands.
 71.031 Reestablishment of pleadings and process in pending actions.

71.041 Reestablishment of land titles destroyed by fire.

71.011 Reestablishment of papers, records, etc.—All papers, written or printed, of any kind whatsoever, and the records and files of any official, court or public office, may be reestablished in the manner hereinafter provided.

(1) WHO MAY REESTABLISH.—Any person interested in the paper, file or record to be reestablished may reestablish it.

(2) VENUE.—If reestablishment is sought of a record or file, venue is in the county where the record or file existed before its loss or destruction. If it is a private paper, venue is in the county where any person affected thereby lives or if such persons are nonresidents of the state, then in any county in which the person seeking the reestablishment desires.

(3) REMEDY CONCURRENT.—Nothing herein shall prevent the reestablishment of lost papers, records and files at common law or in equity in the usual manner.

(4) EFFECT.—

(a) Any paper, record or file reestablished has the effect of the original. A private paper has such effect immediately on recording the judgment reestablishing it, but a reestablished record does not have that effect until recorded and a reestablished paper or file of any official, court or public officer does not have that effect until a certified copy is filed with the official or in the court or public office where the original belonged. A certified copy of any reestablished paper, the original of which is required or authorized by law to be recorded, may be recorded.

(b) When any deed forming a link in a chain of title to land in this state has been placed on the proper record without having been acknowledged or proven for record and has thereafter been lost or destroyed, certified copies of the record of the deed as so recorded may be received as evidence to reestablish the deed if the deed has been so recorded for twenty years.

(5) COMPLAINT.—A person desiring to establish any paper, record or file, except when otherwise provided, shall file a complaint in chancery setting forth that the paper, record or file has been lost or destroyed and is not in the custody or control of the petitioner, the time and manner of loss or destruction, that a copy attached is a substantial copy of that lost or destroyed, that the persons named in the complaint are the only persons known to plaintiff who are interested for or against such reestablishment.

On the hearing the judge shall ascertain the facts and determine the application.

71.041 Reestablishment of land titles destroyed by fire.—

(1) JURISDICTION.—When the records in any county or any material part thereof have been destroyed by fire so that a connected chain of title cannot be deduced therefrom, the chancery court in the county has jurisdiction to inquire into the condition of any title to or interest in any land in the county and to determine and establish the title against all persons known or unknown.

(2) PLAINTIFF.—Any person claiming a freehold estate in any land in the county who, or whose grantors, were in the actual possession of the land at the time of destruction of the records and who is in possession thereof at the time of filing the complaint may file a complaint to establish and confirm his title to an estate in such land. Tenants in common or persons owning as aforesaid an undivided interest in the lands may join in the action.

(3) COMPLAINT.—The complaint shall state the description of the lands, the character and extent of the estate claimed by the plaintiff, from whom and when and by what mode he derived his title, the names of all persons owning or claiming any estate or possessory interest in the lands or any part thereof, all persons who are in possession of the lands or any part thereof, all persons to whom any of the lands have been conveyed, and the date or dates that the conveyances were recorded since the time of the destruction of the records and before the filing of the complaint and if no such persons are known to plaintiff, he shall so state.

(4) DETERMINATION OF TITLES, ETC.

—The court may determine in whom the title to any land described in the complaint is vested, whether plaintiff or any other party, but the judgment shall not affect any lien to which the land is subject, but shall leave all liens to be ascertained or established or enforced as is provided by law.

The clerk shall mail a copy of the summons and the petition to each out-of-state defendant at his address as set forth in the petition. The clerk shall file a certificate of mailing which, together with proof of publication, shall constitute effective service as though the defendant had been personally served with process within this state.

(2) The amount of such compensation shall be determined as of the date of trial, or the date upon which title passes, whichever shall occur first.

(3) The jury shall determine solely the amount of compensation to be paid, which compensation shall include:

(a) The value of the property sought to be appropriated; and

(b) Where less than the entire property is sought to be appropriated, any damages to the remainder caused by the taking, including when the action is by the state road department, county, municipality, board, district or

(4) When the action is by the state road department, county, municipality, board, district or other public body for the condemnation of a road, canal, levee or water control facility right-of-way, the enhancement, if any, in value of the remaining adjoining property of the defendant property owner by reason of the construction or improvement made or contemplated by the petitioner, shall be offset against the damage, if any, resulting to such remaining adjoining property of the defendant property owner by reason of the construction or improvement, but such enhancement in the value shall not be offset against the value of the property appropriated, and if such enhancement in value shall exceed the damage, if any, to the remaining adjoining property there shall be no recovery over against such property owner for such excess.

(5) The jury shall view the subject property upon demand by any party or by order of the court.

(6) If the jury cannot agree on a verdict the court shall discharge them, empanel a new jury, and proceed with the trial.

The compensation awarded by the jury for each parcel of property sought to be appropriated shall be determined as a whole, irrespective of the separate interests of the various parties, or the various items of damages claimed as to each parcel.

History.—§1, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §73.11.

petitioner upon the payment of, or securing by deposit of money, the amount found by the verdict of the jury. Where there are conflicting claims to the amount awarded for any parcel, the court, upon appropriate motion, shall determine the rights of the interested parties with respect to the amount awarded for each parcel and the method of apportionment, together with the disposition of any other matters arising from the taking.

73.121 Writs of assistance and possession.—Whenever the judge is satisfied that any person, whether holding under the defendant or not, is preventing or obstructing the petitioner from entering upon or taking possession of the property after the petitioner is entitled to do so, he may grant such writs as he may think necessary, or he may proceed for contempt of court.

History.—§1, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §73.15.

73.131 Appeals; costs.

(1) Appeals in eminent domain actions shall be taken in the manner prescribed by law and in accordance with the appellate rules, except that an appeal shall not prevent appropriation of the property by the petitioner where the amount awarded by the judgment has been deposited with the court as aforesaid. If, at any time after entry of the judgment, a defendant shall take out of the court the amount due him, any pending appeal taken by him shall be dismissed by the appellate court upon the filing of a certificate by the clerk of the circuit court stating that the defendant taking the appeal has withdrawn the amount due him.

(2) The petitioner shall pay all reasonable costs of the proceedings in the appellate court, including a reasonable attorney's fee to be assessed by that court, except upon an appeal taken by a defendant in which the judgment of the trial court shall be affirmed.

History.—§1, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §73.14.

73.141 Payment.

(1) In the event that no appeal has been taken within sixty days of the rendition of the final judgment, the clerk shall pay each judgment creditor the sum necessary to satisfy the judgment from the funds on deposit, and upon order of the court shall refund to the petitioner all the funds not necessary for the satisfaction of the judgment, costs and attorney fees.

(2) In the event that a timely appeal is taken and the judgment of the trial court is affirmed, the clerk of the court shall pay each judgment creditor as hereinabove provided.

History.—§1, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §73.13.

73.151 Railroads and canal companies.

(1) Whenever land sought to be condemned to the use of a railroad or canal company is in the possession, under any law of this state, of another railroad or canal company which is using the same in the construction or operation of its railroad or canal, the use of no more land than is necessary to furnish to the petitioner a right-of-way one hundred five feet in width across such railroad or canal shall be condemned for such use.

(2) If it shall be necessary for any railroad company organized under any law of this state to use, for the purpose of its road, any lands over which any other railroad company shall have previously acquired the right-of-way for its road, the right to use such lands may be acquired as in other cases. Such lands shall not be taken in a manner to interfere with the main track of the railroad first established except for crossing, as provided by law.

History.—§1, ch. 65-345; §1, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §§73.17 and 73.18.

73.161 Right-of-way for telephone and telegraph over railroad right-of-way.

(1) If any telegraph or telephone company fails to secure the consent of any railroad or railway company for the construction of its lines along and upon the right-of-way of any railroad in this state, the same may be acquired by eminent domain. If the defendant railroad or railway company has a principal office or place of business in this state, and any portion of the right-of-way sought to be condemned extends into the county wherein such principal office or place of business is located, then the eminent domain action shall be had in such county. No map need be filed with the petition, but it shall state about how many poles per mile will be erected on such right-of-way, and about how far from each other, and from the centers of the main track of the railroad, their length and size, the depth they will be planted in the ground, and the amount of land that will be occupied by them. No pole shall be set at a greater distance than ten feet from the outer edge of the right-of-way. In such action, the petitioner shall give bond for costs in the penalty of two hundred dollars, payable to the defendant, with surety to be approved by the clerk.

(2) The judgment shall authorize the petitioner to enter upon the right-of-way of the defendant and construct its lines thereon. Said judgment shall further provide that such lines shall be constructed so as not to interfere with the operation of the trains of said defendant or any telephone or telegraph line already upon such right-of-way; and, furthermore, that if, at any time, the railroad or railway company shall desire, for railway purposes, the immediate use of any land occupied by said petitioner, then the petitioner shall, upon reasonable notice in writing, at its own expense, remove its line to some other place adjacent thereto on such right-of-way so as not to interfere with the track or use of said railway or any telephone or telegraph line already on said right-of-way, and that the said line shall not be erected on any embankment or slope of any cut of such right-of-way, and if at any time the said railroad or railway company shall require for railroad purposes its entire right-of-way at any point occupied by said line, the said petitioner shall, at such point, remove said line entirely off such right-of-way.

(3) The telegraph or telephone company by such action shall acquire only an easement in and to said railroad right-of-way for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, and operating its telegraph or telephone line thereon, and only the interests of such parties as are brought before the court shall be condemned in such action. If the easement or right-of-way claimed extends in or through more counties than one, the whole right and controversy may be heard and determined in any county into or through which such right-of-way extends, except as herein otherwise provided.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

74.021 Rights under this chapter; additional.—The right to take possession and title in advance of final judgment in eminent domain actions, as provided by this law, shall be in addition to any right, power or authority conferred by laws of the state under which proceedings may be conducted and shall not be construed as abrogating, limiting or modifying any such right, power or authority.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §74.12.

74.031 Declaration of taking; contents.—Those having the right to take possession and title in advance of the entry of final judgment in eminent domain actions, as provided by law, may file, either with the petition or at any time prior to the entry of final judgment, a declaration of taking signed by the petitioner, or its duly authorized agent or attorney, stating that the property sought to be appropriated is thereby taken for the use set forth in the petition. The petitioner shall make a good faith estimate of value, based upon a valid appraisal of each parcel in the proceeding, which shall be made a part of the declaration of taking.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §74.01.

74.041 Process; service and publication.—

(1) Upon the filing of the declaration of taking, the clerk of the court shall issue a notice of hearing to the defendants, containing the names of all defendants named in the petition, notifying them that the petitioner will apply to the court for an order of taking on a specified date. A copy of the notice of hearing and the declaration of taking shall be served upon all resident defendants in the manner provided by law for service of original process in eminent domain actions, and not less than twenty days prior to the date specified for the hearing on the order of taking.

(2) If any defendant is alleged to be a non-resident of the state, or if the name or address of any defendant is alleged to be unknown, or if personal service cannot be had upon any defendant for any other reason, the clerk of the court shall cause the notice of hearing to be published one time, not less than twenty days prior to the date specified for the hearing on the order of taking, in some newspaper published in the county; provided, however, that if the petitioner be a municipality and a newspaper is published therein, the notice shall be published in such a newspaper. The clerk shall mail a copy of the notice of hearing and the declaration of taking to each out-of-state defendant at the address set forth in the petition. The clerk shall file a certificate of mailing, which, together with proof of publication, shall constitute effective service as to these defendants. The failure of any party to receive notice, by mail, shall not invalidate the proceedings of the court or any order made pursuant to this chapter.

(3) The notice of hearing provided in this section may be combined with the summons to show cause, and the published notice provided in §73.031.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

(2) The court shall make such order as it deems proper, securing to all parties the rights to which they may be entitled. The court may make such orders in respect of encumbrances, liens, rents, taxes, assessments, insurance, and other charges, if any, as shall be just and equitable. If the court finds that the petitioner is entitled to possession of the property prior to final judgment, it shall enter an order requiring the petitioner to deposit in the registry of the court such sum of money as will fully secure and fully compensate the persons entitled to compensation as ultimately determined by the final judgment. Said deposit shall not be less than the amount of the petitioner's estimate of value, if the petitioner be the state or any agency thereof, any county, city or other public body; otherwise, double the amount of petitioner's estimate of value.

(3) The court may fix the time within which and the terms upon which the defendants shall be required to surrender possession to the petitioner. The order of taking shall become effective upon the deposit of the required sum in the registry of the court, but if the deposit is not made within twenty days from the entry of the order of taking, the order shall be void and of no further force or effect. No sum refunded to the petitioner from the registry of the court, pursuant to this chapter, shall be charged with commissions or poundage.

(4) This section, as amended by ch. 67-370 shall take effect on October 1, 1967, and shall apply to all eminent domain proceedings filed after that date.

74.061 Vesting of title or interest sought.—

(1) Immediately upon the making of the deposit, the title or interest specified in the petition shall vest in the petitioner, and the said lands shall be deemed to be condemned and taken for the use of the petitioner, and the right to compensation for the same shall vest in the persons entitled thereto. Compensation shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of chapter 73, except that interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of surrender of possession to the date of payment on the amount that the verdict exceeds the estimate of value set forth in the declaration of taking.

(2) Subsection (1), as amended by ch. 67-277, shall become effective on October 1, 1967, and shall apply to all eminent domain proceedings instituted after said date.

If the compensation awarded for the property by the final judgment shall exceed the amount withdrawn by the defendant, the court shall enter judgment against the petitioner for the deficiency. If the amount withdrawn exceeds the compensation awarded for the property by the final judgment, the court shall enter a judgment against such defendant for the excess, and such judgment shall be a lien against any of his property except his homestead.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §74.09.

74.091 Effect of failure to pay final judgment.—Where an order of taking has been entered and deposit made, the failure of the petitioner to pay into the court the compensation ascertained by the jury shall not invalidate said judgment or the title of the petitioner, and such failure shall not authorize any person to molest, interfere with, enter or trespass upon said property; provided, however, persons lawfully entitled to compensation may sue out execution, in the event a timely appeal has not been filed, and such execution may be levied upon the property so condemned and any other property of the petitioner in the same manner as executions are levied in common law actions.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §74.14.

74.101 Rights of housing authority after taking.—

In any action in which any housing authority created under the laws of Florida has taken or may take possession of any real property in advance of final judgment therein, and the said petitioner has become irrevocably committed to pay the amount ultimately to be awarded as compensation, then it is lawful to expend moneys duly appropriated for that purpose in demolishing existing structures on said land, and in erecting buildings or public works thereon, or in improving said land or erecting and constructing buildings or works thereon, authorized by law to be constructed by any petitioner.

History.—§4, ch. 65-369.

Note.—Similar provisions in former §74.13.

74.111 Drainage districts and housing authorities.—In any action instituted by a drainage or subdrainage district, or housing authority wherein the petitioner seeks to avail itself of the provisions of this chapter:

(1) Action under this chapter shall not be taken unless the chairman or other legally constituted head of the petitioning authority empowered to acquire the land shall be of the opinion that the ultimate award probably will be within the limits of the authority's ability to pay.

(2) It shall be lawful for the petitioner to expend moneys duly appropriated for the purpose of availing itself of the provisions of this chapter in going forward with the project for which the land was taken; provided that, in the opinion of the attorney representing the taking authority, the title has been vested in the authority taking, or all persons having an interest therein have been made parties to such proceeding and will be bound by the final judgment therein.

(3) No money shall be paid nor contracts made for payment for any construction or maintenance proposed by the petitioner under this chapter in excess of the amount specifically appropriated therefor by the legislature of the state, or procured by and secured to the petitioner under contracts with private persons, firms, or corporations in accordance with the laws authorizing such taking authority to negotiate contracts with private persons, firms, or corporations, or by the issuance of bonds and other debentures pursuant to tax levies duly made, all in accordance with the law in such cases made and provided.

(4) The attorney representing the petitioner is authorized to stipulate or agree in behalf of the taking authority to exclude any property, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, that may have been, or may be taken by or on behalf of the authority taking by the declaration of taking, or otherwise.

75.02 Plaintiff.—Any county, municipality, taxing district or other political district or subdivision of this state, including the governing body of any drainage, conservation or reclamation district, and including also state agencies, commissions and departments authorized by law to issue bonds, may determine its authority to incur bonded debt or issue certificates of debt and the legality of all proceedings in connection therewith, including assessment of taxes levied or to be levied, the lien thereof and proceedings or other remedies for their collection. For this purpose a complaint shall be filed in the circuit court in the county or in the county where the municipality or district, or any part thereof, is located against the state and the taxpayers, property owners and citizens of the county, municipality or district, including nonresidents owning property or subject to taxation therein. In actions to validate bonds or certificates of debt issued by state agencies, commissions or departments, the complaint shall be filed in the circuit court of the county where the proceeds of the bond issue are to be expended, or where the seat of state government is situated, and shall be brought against the state and the taxpayers, property owners and citizens thereof, including nonresidents owning property or subject to taxation therein.

75.04 Complaint.—The complaint shall set out the plaintiff's authority for incurring the bonded debt or issuing certificates of debt, the holding of an election and the result when an election is required, the ordinance, resolution or other proceeding authorizing the issue and its adoption, all other essential proceedings had or taken in connection therewith, the amount of the bonds or certificates to be issued and the interest they are to bear; and, in case of a drainage, conservation or reclamation district, the authority for the creation of such district, for the issuance of bonds, for the levy and assessment of taxes and all other pertinent matters.

(1) The court shall issue an order directed against the state and the several property owners, taxpayers, citizens and others having or claiming any right, title or interest in property to be affected by the issuance of bonds or certificates, or to be affected thereby, requiring all persons, in general terms and without naming them and the state through its state attorney or attorneys of the circuits where the county, municipality or district lies, to appear at a designated time and place within the circuit where the complaint is filed and show why the complaint should not be granted and the proceedings and bonds or certificates validated. A copy of the complaint and order shall be served on the state attorney of the circuit in which such proceedings are pending, and when the municipality or district lies in more than one judicial circuit, on the state attorney of each of the circuits at least twenty days before the time fixed for hearing. The state attorney shall examine the complaint and if it appears, or there is reason to believe, that it is defective, insufficient or untrue, or if in the opinion of the state attorney, the issuance of the bonds or certificates in question has not been duly authorized, defense shall be made by said state attorney. The state attorney shall have access, for the purposes aforesaid, to all records and proceedings of the county, municipality, state agency, commission or department, or district, and any officer, agent or employee having charge, possession or control of any of the books, papers or records of the county, municipality, state agency, commission, department, or district shall exhibit them for examination on demand of the state attorney, and shall furnish, without cost, duly authenticated copies thereof which pertain to the proceedings for the issuance of the bonds or certificates or which may affect their legality.

75.06 Publication of notice.—

(1) Before the date set for hearing, the clerk shall publish a copy of the order in the county where the complaint is filed, and if plaintiff is a municipality or district in more than one county, then in each county, once each week for three consecutive weeks, commencing with the first publication, which shall not be less than twenty days before the date set for hearing but if there is a newspaper published in the territory to be affected by the issuance of the bonds or certificates, and in the county or counties the publication shall be therein unless otherwise ordered by the court. By this publication all property owners, taxpayers, citizens and others having or claiming any right, title or interest in the county, municipality or district, or the taxable property therein, are made parties defendant to the action and the court has jurisdiction of them to the same extent as if named as defendants in the complaint and personally served with process.

(2) In actions to validate the bonds of state agencies, commissions or departments, the order shall be published in the same manner in a newspaper in each of the counties where the proceeds of bonds are to be expended, and in a newspaper published in the county in which the seat of state government is located if the action is brought therein.

On receipt of the writ, the sheriff shall take possession of the property and deliver it to the proper officer of the court from which the writ was issued, and make return of the writ. 76.19 Return of property upon bond to pay debt.—Property attached may be restored to defendant (or in case of foreclosure of mortgage, to any person who makes affidavit that he is the owner of the equity of redemption), on his giving a bond with surety to be approved by the officer, conditioned for the payment to plaintiff of the debt and all costs of the action, when they are adjudicated to be payable to plaintiff.

76.22 Custody of attached property; sale of perishables.—All personal property levied on by attachment, shall remain in custody of the officer who attached it until disposed of according to law unless it is restored to defendant or some person for him, or is claimed by a third person. When the property attached is perishable or liable to great deterioration in value or the costs of keeping it are greatly disproportionate to its value, the court may order the sale of the property after such notice as is expedient, and the proceeds of the sale shall be paid into court and abide the judgment.

History.—§12, Feb. 17, 1833; RS 1655; GS 2119; RGS 3420; CGL 5273; §26, ch. 67-254.

(1) The court to which the attachment is returnable is always open to hear motions to dissolve the attachment.

(2) On answer by defendant that any allegation in plaintiff's motion is untrue, this issue shall be tried. If the allegation in plaintiff's motion which is denied is not proved to be true, the attachment shall be dissolved.

(3) If the answer denies the debt demanded, the judge may require pleadings thereon on motion of either party to be filed in such time as he fixes.

(4) The issue, if any, raised by the pleadings shall be tried at the same time as the issue, if any, made by the answer on the special cause assigned in plaintiff's motion for the suit. On demand of either party a jury summoned from the body of the county shall be impaneled to try the issue.

76.251 When writ returnable.—A writ of attachment is returnable when fully executed or when the officer is convinced that no property can be found. If property is seized under the writ, the writ shall be returned when the property seized finally passes from the lien of the writ and control of the officer levying it. At the time of each action taken under the writ, the officer shall endorse the action thereon.

History.—§26, ch. 67-254.

(4) BOND.—No attachment shall issue until the person applying for it, his agent or attorney, makes a bond with surety to be approved by the clerk of the court in which the action is commenced payable to defendant in a sum at least double the amount of money in good faith demanded conditioned to pay all costs and damages which defendant may sustain in consequence of plaintiff's improperly suing out the attachment but no bond shall be required when the state, or any governmental subdivision, agency or department is plaintiff.

(5) FORTHCOMING BOND.—Any vessel attached under this law may be restored at any time to defendant or to some other person for him, on defendant or the other person giving bond with surety to the officer levying the attachment to be approved by the officer payable to plaintiff in double the value of the vessel levied on, if the value does not exceed the amount of plaintiff's claim, or double the amount of plaintiff's claim, if the value exceeds the amount of plaintiff's claim, the value to be fixed by the officer, conditioned for the forthcoming of the property restored to abide the final judgment of the court but if the action is for unliquidated damages, defendant or the claimant of the offending vessel instead of furnishing a bond may apply to the court for a reduction in the amount of the bond, and the court may fix the amount and conditions of the bond at a sum sufficient to adequately secure payment of the amount of the injury or damage which may have been suffered by plaintiff with costs. The release bond shall be approved by the court. If plaintiff recovers a judgment, it shall be rendered against defendant, or the claimant of the vessel, and his surety on the release bond.

85.021 Enforcement by persons not in privity with the owner.—A person not in privity with the owner may resort to any of the remedies prescribed by §85.011. The judgment may provide for the recovery from the contractor or other person for whom the labor or material

85.031 Remedies against personal property only; all lienors.—

(1) BY INJUNCTION AND ATTACHMENT.—If any person entitled to a lien under part II of chapter 713 on personal property has reason to believe that it is about to be removed from the county in which it is, he may enjoin its removal in the manner provided for enjoining the removal of property subject to a mortgage or, if the lien has been perfected, may attach it in the manner provided for attachment in aid of foreclosure of mortgages.

(2) BY SALE WITHOUT JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS.—When any person entrusts to any mechanic or laborer, materials with which to construct, alter or repair any article of value, or any article of value to be altered or repaired, and if the article is completed and not taken away, and the reasonable charges not paid, such mechanic or laborer may sell it after three months from the time such charges become due at public auction for cash but before the sale the mechanic or laborer shall give public notice of the time and place thereof, by notices posted for ten days in three public places in the county, one of which shall be at the courthouse, and another in some conspicuous part of his shop or place of business. The proceeds of the sale, after payment of charges for construction or repair with the costs of the sale, shall be deposited with the clerk of the circuit court for the county, if the owner is absent, where they shall remain subject to the order of the person legally entitled thereto. The clerk shall be entitled to receive five per cent on the proceeds for the care and disbursement thereof. Any person claiming a lien under §713.65, of part II of chapter 713, may enforce it by sale without judicial proceedings in the manner set forth herein after one month after the time the charges for which a lien is claimed become due.

(3) MOTOR VEHICLES.—Any motor vehicle which is stored in a garage or storage space subject to instructions by any law enforcement agency and which remains unclaimed or for which reasonable towing or storage charges remain unpaid may be sold by the owner or operator of the garage or storage space after seventy-five days from the time the vehicle is deposited in the garage or storage space. The sale shall be at public auction for cash. Notice of the sale shall be given to the person in whose name the vehicle is registered and to all persons claiming a lien on the vehicle shown on the records of the department of motor vehicles or the corresponding agencies in any other state. The notices shall be by registered or certified mail addressed to the owner of the vehicle and the person having a recorded lien on the vehicle at the address shown on the records of the registering agency and shall be mailed not less than fifteen days before the date of the sale. After diligent search and inquiry if the name and address of the registered owner or the owner of the recorded lien cannot be ascertained, the requirements of notice by mail may be dispensed with. In addition to the notice by mail, public notice of the time and place of sale shall be made by publishing a notice thereof one time, at least ten days prior to the date of the sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the sale is to be held or by notices posted for ten days in three public places in the county, one of which shall be at the courthouse, and another in some conspicuous part of the garage or storehouse. The proceeds of the sale, after payment of reasonable towing and storage charges and the costs of the sale, shall be deposited with the clerk of the circuit court for the county, if the owner is absent, where they shall remain, subject to the order of the person legally entitled thereto. The clerk shall be entitled to receive five per cent on such proceeds for the care and disbursement thereof. DECLARATORY JUDGMENTS

- 86.011 Jurisdiction of circuit court.
 86.021 Power to construe, etc.
 86.031 Before breach.
 86.041 Actions by executors, administrators, trustees, etc.
 86.051 Enumeration not exclusive.

86.011 Jurisdiction of circuit court.—The circuit courts have jurisdiction to declare rights, status and other equitable or legal relations whether or not further relief is or could be claimed. No action or procedure is open to objection on the ground that a declaratory judgment is demanded. The court's declaration may be either affirmative or negative in form and effect and such declaration has the force and effect of a final judgment. The court may render declaratory judgments on the existence, or non-existence:

(1) Of any immunity, power, privilege or right; or

(2) Of any fact upon which the existence or nonexistence of such immunity, power, privilege or right does or may depend, whether such immunity, power, privilege or right now exists or will arise in the future. Any person seeking a declaratory judgment may also demand additional, alternative, coercive, subsequent or supplemental relief in the same action.

History.—§1, ch. 21820, 1943; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §38, ch. 67-254.

86.021 Power to construe, etc.—Any person claiming to be interested or who may be in doubt about his rights under a deed, will, contract or other article, memorandum or instrument in writing or whose rights, status or other equitable or legal relations are affected by a statute, or any regulation made under statutory authority, or by municipal ordinance, contract, deed, will, franchise, or other article, memorandum or instrument in writing may have determined any question of construction or validity arising under such statute, regulation, municipal ordinance, contract, deed, will, franchise, or other article, memorandum or instrument in writing, or any part thereof, and obtain a declaration of rights, status or other equitable or legal relations thereunder.

History.—§2, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

or legal relations in respect thereto:

(1) To ascertain any class of creditors, devisees, legatees, heirs, next of kin, or others; or

(2) To direct the executor, administrator, or trustee to refrain from doing any particular act in his fiduciary capacity; or

(3) To determine any question arising in the administration of the estate or trust, including questions of construction of wills and other writings.

History.—§4, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.04.

86.051 Enumeration not exclusive.—The enumeration in §§86.021, 86.031 and 86.041 does not limit or restrict the exercise of the general powers conferred in § 86.011 in any action where declaratory relief is sought. Any declaratory judgment rendered pursuant to this chapter may be rendered by way of anticipation with respect to any act not yet done or any event which has not yet happened, and in such case the judgment shall have the same binding effect with respect to that future act or event, and the rights or liability to arise therefrom, as if that act or event had already been done or had already happened before the judgment was rendered.

History.—§5, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.05.

86.061 Supplemental relief.—Further relief based on a declaratory judgment may be granted when necessary or proper. The application therefor shall be by motion to the court having jurisdiction to grant relief. If the application is sufficient, the court shall require any adverse party whose rights have been adjudicated by the declaratory judgment to show cause on reasonable notice, why further relief should not be granted forthwith.

History.—§7, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.07.

86.071 Jury trials.—When an action under this chapter concerns the determination of an issue of fact, the issue may be tried as issues of fact are tried in other civil actions in the court in which the proceeding is pending. To settle questions of fact necessary to be determined before judgment can be rendered, the court may direct their submission to a jury. When a declaration of right or the granting of further relief based thereon concerns the determination of issues of fact triable by a jury, the issues may be submitted to a jury in the form of interrogatories, with proper instructions by the court, whether a general verdict is required or not. Neither this section nor any other section of this chapter shall be construed as requiring a jury to determine issues of fact in chancery actions.

History.—§8, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.08.

86.081 Costs.—The court may award costs as are equitable.

History.—§9, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.09.

86.091 Parties.—When declaratory relief is sought, all persons may be made parties who have or claim any interest which would be affected by the declaration. No declaration shall prejudice the rights of persons not parties to the proceedings. In any proceeding concerning the validity of a county or municipal charter, ordinance or franchise, such county or municipality shall be made a party and shall be entitled to be heard. If the statute, charter, ordinance or franchise is alleged to be unconstitutional, the attorney general or the state attorney of the judicial circuit in which the action is pending shall be served with a copy of the complaint and be entitled to be heard.

History.—§10, ch. 21820, 1943; §1, ch. 59-440; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.10.

86.101 Construction of law.—This chapter is declared to be substantive and remedial. Its purpose is to settle and to afford relief from insecurity and uncertainty with respect to rights, status and other equitable or legal relations and is to be liberally administered and construed.

History.—§11, ch. 21820, 1943; §38, ch. 67-254.

Note.—Formerly §87.11.

86.111 Adequate remedy does not preclude.—The existence of another adequate remedy does not preclude a judgment for declaratory relief. The court may order a speedy hearing of an action for a declaratory judgment and may advance it on the calendar. The court has power to give as full and complete equitable relief as it would have had if such proceeding had been instituted as an action in chancery.

History.—§12, ch. 21820, 1943; §2, ch. 29737, 1955; §38, ch. 67-254.

(3) Responding state means any state in which any proceeding pursuant to the proceeding in the initiating state is or may be commenced.

(4) Court means the circuit court of this state and when the context requires, means the court of any other state as defined in a substantially similar reciprocal law.

(5) Law includes both common and statute law.

History.—§4, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.051 Extent of duties of support.—Duties of support arising under the law of this state, when applicable under §88.081, bind the obligor, present in this state, regardless of the presence or residence of the obligee.

History.—§5, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.061 Interstate rendition.—The governor of this state may demand from the governor of any other state the surrender of any person found in such other state who is charged in this state with the crime of failing to provide for the support of any person in this state and may surrender on demand by the governor of any other state any person found in this state who is charged in such other state with the crime of failing to provide for the support of a person in such other state. The provisions for extradition of criminals not inconsistent herewith shall apply to any such demand although the person whose surrender is demanded was not in the demanding state at the time of the commission of the crime and although he had not fled therefrom. Neither the demand, the oath nor any proceedings for extradition pursuant to this section need state or show that the person whose surrender is demanded has fled from justice, or at the time of the commission of the crime was in the demanding or other state.

History.—§8, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.091 Remedies of a state or political subdivision thereof furnishing support.—Whenever the state or a political subdivision thereof furnishes support to an obligee, it has the same right to invoke the provisions hereof as the obligee to whom the support was furnished for the purpose of securing reimbursement of expenditures so made and of obtaining continuing support.

History.—§9, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.101 How duties of support are enforced.—All duties of support are enforceable by complaint irrespective of relationship between the obligor and obligee. Jurisdiction of all proceedings hereunder shall be vested in the circuit court.

88.141 Duty of court of this state as initiating state.—If the court of this state acting as an initiating state finds that the petition sets forth facts from which it may be determined that the defendant owes a duty of support and that a court of the responding state may obtain jurisdiction of the defendant or his property, it shall so certify and shall cause three copies of the complaint, its certificate and this chapter to be transmitted to the court in the responding state. If the name and address of such court is unknown and the responding state has an information agency comparable to that established in the initiating state it shall cause such copies to be transmitted to the state information agency or other proper official of the responding state, with a request that it forward them to the proper court, and that the court of the responding state acknowledge their receipt to the court of the initiating state.

History.—§14, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.151 Costs and fees.

If no order requiring the payment of the costs by the defendant is made under this subsection, or if such an order is made and the court thereafter finds that compliance therewith cannot or should not be compelled, the court may in its discretion order that the costs, charges and fees, except clerk's fees incurred in an action brought by or through the state or an agency thereof, to be paid by the county.

tain the body of the defendant by appropriate process.

History.—§18, ch. 29901, 1955.

88.191 Further duty of responding court.—If a court of this state, acting as a responding state, is unable to obtain jurisdiction of the defendant or his property due to inaccuracies or inadequacies in the complaint or otherwise, the court shall communicate this fact to the court in the initiating state, shall on its own initiative use all means at its disposal to trace the defendant or his property, and shall hold the case pending the receipt of more accurate information or an amended complaint from the court in the initiating state.

The instrument shall not be rendered invalid by the failure to state the place of execution or acknowledgment.

(3) If the signature, rank and branch of service or subdivision thereof of any commissioned officer appears upon such instrument, document or certificate no further proof of the authority of such officer so to act shall be required and such action by such commissioned officer shall be prima facie evidence that the person making such oath, affidavit or acknowledgment is within the purview of this act.

98.031 Registration and election districts, precincts and polling places; boundaries.—

(1) Each election precinct, election district, and polling place in this state as defined and fixed is recognized and continued. The board of county commissioners in each county upon recommendation and approval of the supervisor may, in any odd-numbered year, alter or create new districts or precincts. Each precinct shall be numbered and a polling place at a suitable location designated. The district or precinct shall not be changed thereafter except in odd-numbered years with the consent of four members of the board of county commissioners and the supervisor. The board of county commissioners and the supervisor may if requested by official action of a municipality or if practical and desirable have precinct boundaries conform to municipal boundaries.

(2) When in any election there are less than twenty-five registered electors of the only political party having candidates on the ballot in any precinct such precinct may be combined with other adjoining precincts into an election district upon the recommendation of the supervisor of elections and the approval of the county commissioners. Notice of the combination of precincts into election districts shall be given in the same manner as provided in §101.71 (2).

History.—§10, ch. 3879, 1899; RS 164; §11, ch. 4328, 1895; GS 184; RGS 228; CGL 281; §2, ch. 24203, 1947; §6, ch. 25383, 1949; §2, ch. 26329, 1949; §2, ch. 26870, 1951; §4, ch. 29934, 1955; §3, ch. 57-166; §1, ch. 59-281; §1, ch. 67-169.

Note.—Formerly §98.23.

98.041 Permanent single registration system established; effective date.—A permanent single registration system for the registration of electors to qualify them to vote in all elections is provided for the several counties except those mentioned in §98.141 including elections held in municipalities which by resolution elect to use the system. The system shall be established on or before January 1, 1966, and become effective in each county on January 1 subsequent to the date the board of county commissioners shall officially adopt the system. Electors shall be registered in pursuance of this system by the supervisor or by precinct registration officers, and electors registered shall not thereafter be required to register or reregister except as provided by law or as provided for the registration of freeholders.

History.—§1, ch. 25391, 1949; §2, ch. 26870, 1951; §1, ch. 59-237.

Note.—Formerly §97.01.

98.051 Registration books for permanent registration system; when open.—

(1) Application for voter registration shall be accepted each weekday in the office of the supervisor and at all permanent branch offices at which a deputy supervisor of registration officer is on duty, from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., to permit qualified applicants to be registered to vote. Such offices may also be opened one night each week until 9:00 p.m. during the period from sixty days to thirty days prior to closing of the registration books for the first primary and the general election in any even-numbered year. For thirty days prior to closing of the registration books for the first primary and the general election, such offices may be opened for five nights each week until 9:00 p.m.

(2) The books shall close on the thirtieth day before each election at 5:00 p.m. and remain closed for five days after the election during which time no registration shall be accepted after which time they shall be open for registration.

(3) (a) No person shall register at any time other than during the period provided for registration of electors. In computing the thirty day period, the election day is excluded, but all other holidays and Sundays are to be included. Registration shall be conducted on weekdays only and should the thirtieth day preceding an election fall on Sunday or a holiday, then the registration books shall close at 5:00 p.m. on the day preceding.

(b) When a district, municipal, or special election is called at a time when the books are open the supervisor shall close all books to further registration for such district, municipal, or special election thirty days prior to election date or immediately in the event the date of the election is less than thirty days, but the books shall remain open and registrations shall be accepted for all other purposes.

(4) The board of county commissioners may authorize the supervisor to keep his office open for less time than specified in subsection (1), but at no time shall the office be open less than one day each week; provided, however, the office must remain open from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. each weekday during the thirty day period prior to the closing of the registration books for any primary or general election. If the time when registration shall be accepted has been limited by the board of county commissioners, the supervisor shall give notice by publishing twice in a newspaper of general circulation printed in his county, naming the days of the week he will keep his registration books open. If there is no newspaper published in the county, the supervisor shall have notices posted in at least three public places of which one shall be the courthouse.

History.—§3, ch. 25391, 1949; §2, ch. 26870, 1951; §5, ch. 29934, §1, ch. 29761, 1955; §3, ch. 65-134; §2, ch. 67-530.

Note.—Formerly §97.02.

98.081 Removal of names from registration books; procedure.—Between October 1 and January 31, preceding a general election, upon adoption of the permanent registration system the supervisor shall mail either to each qualified elector in the county or to each elector who did not vote in any election in the county during the past two years, a form to be filled in, signed and returned by mail within thirty days after the notice is postmarked. The form returned shall advise the supervisor whether the elector's status has changed from that of the registration record. Names of electors failing to return the forms within this period shall have their names withdrawn temporarily from registration books. The list of the electors, temporarily withdrawn, shall be posted at the courthouse. Names will be restored to the registration records when the elector in person makes known to the supervisor that his status has not changed. The supervisor is then required to reinstate the names on the registration books at any time the books are open without the elector reregistering. Notice of these requirements shall be printed on the registration certificates. This method prescribed for the removal of names is considered cumulative to statutes relating to the removal of names from registration book by the supervisor or board of county commissioners. This is not a reregistration but a method to be used for keeping the permanent registration list up to date.

History.—§3, ch. 25391, 1949; §2, ch. 26870, 1951; §1, ch. 61-86.

Note.—Formerly §97.08.

98.082 Removal of elector's name from registration book.—Any elector may have his name removed from the registration books by filing with the supervisor a written request duly acknowledged, and upon receipt of said request the supervisor shall remove the name of said elector from the registration book; provided, that any person removing his name from the registration books between the primary elections and the subsequent general election shall not register in a different political party after the primary and before the subsequent general election.

History.—§1, ch. 63-185; §1, ch. 67-128.

98.091 Use of system by cities.—Any municipality in a county which has adopted this permanent registration system may use such system in its elections in place of a separate registration for its electors with the concurrence of the board of county commissioners and supervisor of elections. Any municipality desiring to use this system shall, before July 1 of any odd-numbered year, adopt a resolution to that effect and shall notify the board of county commissioners that it desires to use this system. The board of county commissioners may, prior to the following January 1, arrange the boundaries of the precincts in the county so that no precinct in the said municipality adopting this system extends beyond the boundaries of the municipality and shall be in not more than one ward or district of the municipality. When a municipality has adopted this system, it shall be effective on January 1 following the adoption of the above resolution.

The supervisor or one of his deputies shall deliver the registration records required for a municipal election to the municipal elections boards on the morning of the election and collect them when the polls are closed. The municipality shall reimburse the county for actual costs incurred. In the event any municipality elects to use this system, regardless of the provisions of its charter or other laws relating to electors, any registered elector in the precinct at the time the municipal election is held is qualified to participate in such election.

History.—§4, ch. 25391, 1949; §2, ch. 26870, 1951; §10, ch. 27991, 1953; §2, ch. 29761, 1955; §1, ch. 57-136; §1, ch. 63-268; §6, ch. 65-134.
Note.—Formerly §97.04.

98.101 Specifications for permanent registration binders, files and forms therefor by county and municipalities.—

(1) In this system, visible record binders, files and registration forms are used as registration books. The binders shall be visible record binders, metal bound with built-in shifts, to hold executed registration forms, with labelholders and followers for sheet protection as necessary. The registration forms shall consist of duplicates, both to be signed by the registrant. One of the original executed forms shall be used for the poll binders, which binders shall have a built-in lock to protect the forms. The poll binders are divided in a manner convenient for electors to vote. The other original form shall be used for the office copies and arranged alphabetically, in suitable filing cabinets, thus providing a master list of all electors in the county; provided, however, that any county may, as an alternate method, use electronic data processing equipment to fulfill the requirements of this chapter.

(2) All binders, files and other materials or equipment are furnished by the board of county commissioners; provided, however, that when a municipality elects to use the system it shall reimburse the county fifty per cent of the cost of such binders, files and other materials or equipment for the precinct within the said municipality; unless the county and a municipality shall agree otherwise.

101.151 Specifications for general election ballot.—In counties where voting machines are not used, the general election ballot shall conform to the following specifications:

(1) The ballot shall be printed on paper of such thickness that the printing cannot be distinguished from the back.

(2) Across the top of the ballot shall be printed "Official Ballot, General Election," beneath which shall be printed the date of the election, the county and the precinct number. The precinct number is omitted in counties having voting machines, but shall be filled in by the person issuing the ballot. Above the caption of the ballot shall be two stubs with perforated line between the stubs and between the lower stub and the top of the ballot. The top stub shall be stub No. 1 and shall have printed thereon, "General Election, Official Ballot," and then shall appear the name, county and number of precinct and the date of the election. On the left side shall be a blank line under which shall be printed "Signature of Elector." On the right side shall be "Initials of Issuing Officer" under which there shall be a blank line. The second stub shall be the same, except there shall not be a space for signature of the elector. Both stubs No. 1 and No. 2 on ballots for each precinct shall be prenumbered consecutively, beginning with "No. 1."

(3) (a) Beneath the caption and preceding the names of candidates shall be the following words: "To vote for a person whose name is printed on the ballot, place a cross (X) mark in the square at the right of the name of the person for whom you desire to vote." The ballot shall have headings under which shall appear in not more than three columns the names of the offices and names of duly nominated candidates for the respective offices in the following order: The heading "Electors for President and Vice-president" and thereunder the names of the candidates for president and vice-president of the United States nominated by the political party which received the highest vote for governor in the last general election of the governor in this state, above which shall appear the name of said party. Then shall appear the names of other candidates for president and vice-president of the United States who have been properly nominated. Then shall appear the subheading "For write-in voting for electors for President and Vice-president" followed by blank spaces to the number of such electors to which this state is entitled under federal law. Then shall follow the heading "Congressional" and thereunder the offices of United States senator and representative in congress; then the heading "Judicial" and thereunder the offices of justices of the supreme court, district courts of appeal judges, circuit court judges and such other judicial offices involved in the general election in the order to be fixed by the secretary of state; then the heading "State" and thereunder the offices of governor, secretary of state, attorney general, comptroller, state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of agriculture, public service commissioner, state attorney, and public defender; together with the names of the candidates for each office and the title of the office which they seek; then the heading "Legislative" and thereunder the office of state senator and member of the state house of representatives; then the heading "County" and thereunder the offices of county judge, criminal court of record judge, civil court of record judge, juvenile judge, small claims court judge, county solicitor, and prosecuting attorney. Thereafter follows: clerk of the circuit court, sheriff, tax assessor, tax collector, superintendent of public instruction, supervisor of elections, and clerks of the other county courts in order of listing of the courts. Thereafter follows: members of the board of county commissioners, members of the board of public instruction, and such other county offices involved in the general election in the order fixed by the secretary of state.

(b) Immediately following the name of each office on the ballot shall be printed, "Vote for One." When more than one candidate is nominated for office and the candidates qualify and run in groups, the group members shall be printed beneath the names of the office. The name of the office shall be printed over each numbered group and each numbered group clearly separated from the next numbered group, the same as in the case of single offices. Following the group number shall be printed the words, "Vote for One" and the names of the candidates in the respective groups shall be arranged thereunder.

(4) The names of the candidates of the party which received the highest number of votes for governor in the last election in which a governor was elected shall be placed first under the heading for each office together with appropriate abbreviation of party name, the names of the candidates of the party which received the second highest vote for governor shall be second under the heading for each office together with appropriate abbreviation of the party name.

(5) All offices for which there are more than one candidate shall be placed at the top of the ballot immediately following the instructions. Thereafter, all candidates for office, where only one candidate is seeking the position, shall be printed in succession in the general order as provided for contested offices. Then shall appear the names of the unopposed candidates. Above the names of unopposed candidates shall be printed the following: "The remaining offices required by law to be filled at this election are being sought by only one candidate for each office. (7) Should the above directions for complete preparation of the ballot be insufficient, the secretary of state shall determine and prescribe any additional matter or form, including the number of columns in which the ballot may be printed, so as to provide a presentable ballot and conserve paper. Not less than sixty days prior to a general election he shall mail to the clerk of the board of county commissioners in the counties the forms for use in the general election with instructions for preparation of the ballot and before final printing shall, under his certificate, approve the form of ballots.

101.21 Official ballots; number; printing; payment for ballots.—

The printing and delivery of ballots and cards of instruction shall in municipal elections be paid for by the several cities and towns respectively, and in all other elections by the counties respectively.

(2) Official ballots of the form and description for use upon voting machines shall be prepared and furnished in the same manner, at the same time, and are delivered to the supervisors. the elector shall sign his name on the line on the top stub, and if he is unable to write, he shall sign his mark with the assistance of one of the inspectors. The inspector shall compare the signature on the ballot stub with the signature on the elector's registration and if necessary require other identification. If the inspector is reasonably sure that the person is entitled to vote, he shall then detach and retain the upper stub and the elector shall go to the booth and mark his ballot and after he has marked his ballot, he shall fold it so as to leave the stub remaining attached visible so that it can be detached without unfolding. The inspector shall compare it with the stub he retained and if it is the ballot he delivered to the elector, he shall detach and retain the remaining stub and the elector shall then deposit the folded ballot in the ballot box. But, if the marked ballot returned proves to be a different one from the one delivered to him, the inspectors shall then and there search the elector and if the original ballot is found on or about his person, the inspectors shall take possession of the ballot and discharge the elector from the polling place without permitting him to vote. Inspectors of elections, where ballots are used, are clothed with such police power as is necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

(2) The inspectors may prevent any person from voting a second time when they have reason to believe that the person has voted.
